HE MEANS BUSINESS — When it comes to playing tennis, John Lobato, 11, of 37043 Mario Ann Court, Romulus, apparently means business, if the determined expression on his face is any indication. He was one of the participants in the open tennis tournament held at the Romulus Junior High School last Saturday. The tournament was sponsored by the Romulus Recreation Department.

City officials okay pact restricting developer

By HENRY CANTIN

An agreement placing certain restrictions on a proposed multiple dwelling development on a 34-acre land parcel in Romulus has been accepted and unanimously approved by the Romulus City Council.

The agreement, embracing all the demands requested by council members, is with the G.E. Wash Construction Co. of Detroit and the James D. Klingbell & Co. of Columbus, Ohio, owners and developers of Cambridge Station West.

Although the council approved the proposed development's restrictions, which were drawn up by attorneys representing the city and the company, a rezoning of the land parcel requested by Wash Construction Co. was deferred until the Sept. 5 council meeting.

Wash Construction Co. is seeking to rezone the 34.23 acres, located on the south side of Ecorse Road between Henry Ruff and South Wayne Roads, to R-M (multiple dwelling) to permit construction of 405 moderate-income, garden-type apartments. The land parcel is presently zoned R-1A (single-family residential).

Council's action in approving the agreement was at a special council meeting held Friday night.

At last Tuesday's council meeting, the council approved a motion to reconsider a previous action denying the rezoning for the multi-million dollar townhouse project by a 5-1 vote. Councilman James C. Stewart had opposed the motion.

A motion to amend the city's zoning ordinance to permit a rezoning of the land site failed to receive approval by two-thirds of the council.

Voting for the rezoning were Council President Jimmie Raspberry, who was absent when the council denied the request at the earlier council session, Councilmen Ellis T. Pennington, who also had been absent, Brooker R. Edwards and Edumnd W. Bizek. Opposing the motion were Councilmen Fred Junior Block, William M. Oakley and James C. Stewart.

HEA proposals mean 83 mills

Negotiating teams representing the Huron Board of Education and the Huron Education Association (HEA), have exchanged proposals outlining how each group feels the schools should operate during the 1972-73 school year and how much money each group believes the school district should spend.

The HEA negotiators presented a package calling for increases in teacher salaries, benefits and program expansions calling for a potential cost increase in excess of $3,126,116, School Supt. Bryon K. Antcliff reported.

This would call for a tax increase of 83 additional mills for operation, he reported.

Highlights of the teacher's requests include salary and fringe benefit increases averaging a minimum of $3,200 per teacher, lower class size, a greater role in policy decision, a five-hour work day, release time for teachers in order that they may assume the role of hiring new teachers and one aide for every teacher.

Perhaps the strongest educational impact would be a teacher request whereby the entire faculty would attend a college such as the University of Hawaii during the summer in order to obtain additional education.

The teachers are asking the school board to pay all expenses for tuition, books, meals, lodging and transportation for such a program, Antcliff disclosed.

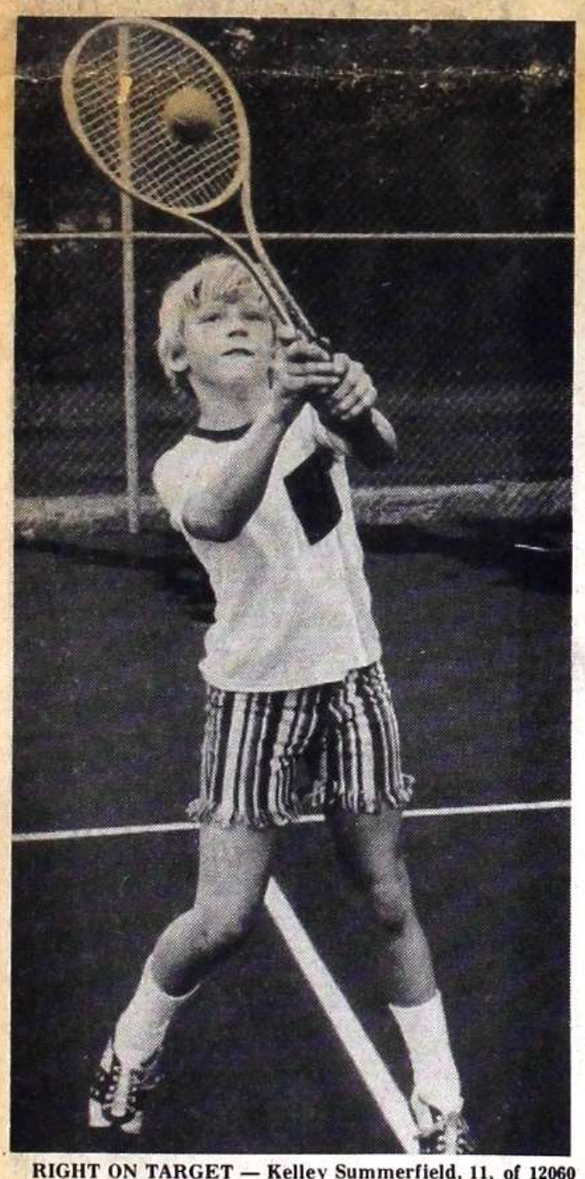
REGISTERING FOR SCHOOL — Helen Hazen, secretary at Romulus Senior High School, registers three students for the 1972-73 school year which starts on Sept. 6. The students are (from left) Robert Tigner, Vergil Smith and Jerryl McWhorter. It's school days again for not only the above trio but all students in the Romulus District and surrounding communities. Classes in area school districts also begin on Sept. 6.



RIGHT ON TARGET — Kelley Summerfield, 11, of 12060 Craig St., Romulus, is right on target with a double-hold overhead stroke while playing in the open tennis tournament for boys and girls 16 years of age and under. The tournament for the area's young tennis enthusiasts was held at the Romulus Junior High School under the supervision of the Romulus Recreation Department.

DPW may move soon to new headquarters

The workers in the Romulus Department of Public Works (DPW) will be hauling the furniture and equipment out of their home pretty soon.

Final plans for the department to move into its new headquarters are nearing completion, announced William Pritula, director of the DPW.

Pritula, a member of a five-member committee appointed by the Romulus City Council to draw up plans for occupying the new structure, as well as revamping current DPW facilities and offices in the new building, added that the committee is awaiting an engineering report from Wade, Trim & Associates, city engineers.

The new DPW headquarters will be housed in an industrial building facility built by Schostak Bros. and Co., Inc., Realtors of Southfield. It is situated on a 12-acre land parcel located at 34100 Goddard Rd.

Members of the committee in addition to Pritula are Councilmen William M. Oakley and James C. Stewart, Assistant DPW Director David Paul and Charles Hellman of Wade, Trim & Associates.

City's seniors will get 'wheels'

The Romulus Senior Citizens Club doesn't have to worry any longer about getting wheels — the City Council has agreed to purchase a bus to provide transportation for the oldsters.

The council recently okayed the purchase of a school bus from the Romulus Board of Education at a cost not to exceed $1,450.

Officials of the club had requested the council to see what it could do to provide transportation for the city's senior citizens when attending their weekly meetings and other recreational events and programs.

Councilman Brooker R. Edwards made the request for the council to purchase the school bus, which was offered by the school district at a trade-in value of $1,450. He was supported in his request by Councilman Ellis T. Pennington.

The roll call vote of the council was 4 - 3. Councilmen William M. Oakley, James C. Stewart and Fred Junior Block voted against the purchase. Councilman Edmund W. Bizek, Edwards, Pennington and Council President Jimmie Raspberry voted in favor of the purchase.

In answering the city's request for a school bus to provide senior citizens transportation, the Romulus Board of Education reported it was obligated to trade in buses at $1,450 and would be willing to comply with the city's request.

Pennington made a motion that prior to using the school bus the DPW be ordered to conduct an operational and safety inspection of the bus. He was supported by Edwards. The motion was unanimously approved.

Expansion plans approved

The Romulus Planning Commission has approved a site plan for the proposed expansion of existing facilities of Budget Rent-A-Car, located at 8515 Wickham Rd.

The expansion proposal includes a three-acre addition for automobile parking, servicing the Detroit-Metropolitan Airport, erection of Budget Rent-A-Car offices, canopy and car wash facilities (servicing the rental cars).

The site plan indicates an additional 430 car spaces will be provided. George Peek, planning consultant, reported the proposed site plan submitted by the firm is more detailed than one previously presented to the commission in July.

He recommended approval of the site plan subject to a drainage review by the city engineers, Wade, Trim & Associates of Taylor.

Meeting place changed

Starting in September, the Huron Board of Education meetings will be held in the Huron Elementary School Building, located at 24820 Merriman Rd., New Boston.

The meetings of the board were formerly held in the Hannan Road Elementary School.

The meetings are held on the third Monday of each month, beginning at 8 p.m.

Council okays subdivision plat

A preliminary plat for the proposed Smokler-Bower Subdivision in Romulus has been approved by the City Council.

The approval of the city council is subject to the subdivision's developer — Bert L. Smokler & Co. of Southfield — incorporating recommendations suggested by the Romulus Planning Commission and council members.

The recommendation relates to maintenance of several temporary hard-surface streets to be installed in the subdivision, indicating in the final plans existing valves on the 20-inch water mains, rerouting enclosed storm system and other related matters.

The proposed Smokler-Bower Subdivision is slated to be built on an 84.3 - acre land parcel along Ecorse Road between Wayne and Henry Ruff roads.

DPW to extend Grover, maintain Herman Street

The Romulus Department of Public Works (DPW) has been instructed by the city council to begin the extension of Grover Street south of Rosewood to the existing road.

The road extension project will cost approximately $9,340. The roll call vote for the road project was 5-2. Councilmen James C. Stewart and William M. Oakley voted against the project.

Grover Street is located north of South Wayne Road between Wahrman and Whiteborn.

The city council also instructed the DPW to start road maintenance on Herman Street west of Ozga Road immediately. Herman Street runs east of Shook Avenue.

Councilman Ellis T. Pennington reported that Herman Street needs grading and scraping and said he has received complaints from the residents about the chuck holes and other bad conditions of the street.

It was pointed out by other council members that Herman Street was not a dedicated street. It was a roadway set up by street residents of earlier days.

Council President Jimmie Raspberry said the health and safety of the present residents must be considered, adding he felt the request by Pennington for DPW maintenance was a good one.

The roll call vote for maintenance of Herman Street was 5 - 2. Councilmen William M. Oakley and Fred Junior Block opposed the motion.

MERE CHRISTIANITY

No one can be saved without accepting Christ. (So John 14:6 and Acts 4:12.) But what does it mean to accept Christ?

Multitudes claim to have accepted Christ while at the same time ignoring and disregarding the authority of Christ in their lives. They worship in a way not sanctioned by Christ. Churches engage in programs not authorized by Christ. Salvation is offered on terms other than those of Christ.

Have such people really accepted Christ? Christ is not only the Saviour (2 Tim. 1:10); he is also the Lord (2 Cor. 4:5), and the Head of the church (Eph. 1:22-23) — and as such the Ruler and Director of the church.

It is the part of the church to submit to its Head in all things (Eph. 5:22-24). One has not really accepted Christ at all if he has not accepted Him for all that He is. And that means accepting Him as both Saviour and Lord.

MERE CHRISTIANITY is presented by the Christians who meet at 9426 S. Wayne Road in Romulus. Watch for it each week. Sunday services are at 10 (Bible study) and 11 A.M. and 6 P.M. Write for free BIBLE CORRESPONDENCE COURSE to Church of Christ, Box 155, Romulus, Michigan, 48174.

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

BY HAROLD REDISKE, DIRECTOR

In less than a century, labor has made tremendous and almost unbelievable gains ... From a modest and initial purpose of better wages and strengthened job security, labor today finds itself tangled and perhaps trapped in a net of laws that cause people to ask, "How will it all end?"

A look at some of the common words seen and heard these days in labor matters shows how a new, up to date labor vocabulary requires intimate understanding of labor-management relations, public interest protection, labor courts, governmental intervention, compulsory arbitration, minimum wage, moonlighting, union dues check-off, apprenticeships, unemployment compensation, industrial compensation, fringe benefits, etc. etc. All these and others were unheard of words not too many years ago. Through the years, labor has acquired a good taste of "the good life". Even better days are optimistically and hopefully seen ahead ... But a disturbingly, nagging question remains. "How will it all end?" Or - more disturbingly - "WILL it all end?"

Faust honors Eugene Gribble

The late Eugene Gribble, known as Santa Claus to thousands of adults and children in the Belleville-Romulus area, will be paid a special tribute in a memorial resolution to be introduced by Sen. William Faust (D-Westland) when the Michigan legislature resumes session next month.

"Mr. Gribble brought endless joy and happiness to many, many families," said Faust. "As one recent newspaper stated, he played Santa Claus 365 days a year."

Born in New Salem, Pa., Gribble was a resident of Romulus for the last 20 years and had been employed as a truck driver until he became ill. He recently died of cancer at the age of 53.

Each Christmas for the last 13 years, he set up a fantasyland trailer. More than 200,000 youngsters have visited the elaborate display to tell Gribble, dressed like Santa in a red suit and sporting a long white beard, their secret wishes.

As Santa, Gribble would visit hundreds of convalescent homes, churches, orphanages and affairs and on Christmas Eve, he delivered children presents left outside their home by parents.

He delighted huge audiences in feature appearances at Christmas parades in Romulus and Belleville with his life-sized reindeer sled.

Gribble started to build a gingerbread house in his garage before losing his sight and white beard.

"He was so loved that area residents initiated a drive to help him pay medical bills when they learned of his illness," said Faust.

"Through the resolution I will introduce, I hope the legislature will at least be able to pay some small token of appreciation and respect for this dear man."

HEA proposals mean 83 mills

The board of education's representatives presented to the REA proposal that calls for essentially the same amounts of money to be spent that were spent last year (1971-72).

The school board's negotiators indicated their proposal represented an attempt to stay in line with the limited financial resources available to the district and would not require any increases in taxes to the taxpayers of the Huron School District, Antcliff reported.

The two groups will continue to meet and try to iron out a contract. Hopefully before the start of the new school year on Sept. 5, the date of teacher orientation. Full day classes begin on Sept. 6 according to the school district's present calendar.

Members of the REA team of negotiators are Arthur Palmer, Mary Grover, Nan Smith, Phyllis Lindblade, James Morgan and Scott Ludwig.

The school board team consists of Thomas Nordberg, William Balwinski, Roger Benner and David Schultz.

Pre-trial exam set for today

A Romulus man faces pre-trial examination today in the 34th District Court in Detroit on a first degree charge of murder.

Primus Bryant, 51, is being held without bond in the Wayne County Jail for allegedly murdering his wife, Stella, on Aug. 21.

Police believe the Bryant woman, of 33273 Beverly Rd., Romulus, was shot in the early morning on that date. Her 16-year old son found her body at the Romulus address when he returned from his home in Detroit to mow the woman's lawn.

At the time of Bryant's arrest, he was also being sought by Detroit police in connection with a charge of assault with intent to commit murder.

According to police, Bryant, who was an employee of Uniroyal in Detroit, went to the home of his foreman, James Butterfield of Peidmont Street in Detroit and wounded Butterfield in the chest and the arm.

The Detroit shooting took place late in the evening of Aug. 20. Police are still investigating any connection between the two shootings.

Airport fill to be utilized

The City of Romulus has initiated steps to make use of approximately 85,000 yards of land fill now available to the city from construction projects under way at the Detroit-Metropolitan Airport.

The free land fill, when procured by the city, will be used to fill around land in the vicinity of the city's new Municipal Building, the new proposed court house and around the new DPW building, now being prepared for future occupancy.

The land fill also will be used to fill a large portion of property adjoining Elmer Johnson Park in the city as well as low land levels throughout the city.

The council's action to go after the land fill was initiated by Councilman Edmund W. Bizek, who recently reported the fill would be dumped in other areas outside of Romulus.

City OKs pact with developer

of the proposed development, attended both Tuesday's and Friday's meetings.

The residents, led by Mrs. Theresa Washington of 6855 Dexter St., Romulus, owner of about 25 acres behind the proposed multiple dwelling project, spoke in favor of the development and urged the council to approve the rezoning.

The firm's proposed plans for the townhouse development calls for the expenditure of from $6 to $8 million in construction costs with rents for $180 and up.

In previous hearings before the Romulus Planning Commission and city council, the developers have agreed to abide by their initial presentations of the project and agreed to include the various recommendations and restrictions requested by members of the council.

Terms of the agreement approved last Friday night by the council were the requirements demanded by the council before it would take any formal action on the rezoning.

One of the major provisions of the agreement insisted on by the council included the following:

"In the event that, for any reason, we (developers) are or shall become unable or unwilling to develop the community as described (initially presented to council) and in accordance with an approved site plan, we herewith agree to give notice to the city 60 days prior written notice of our election or inability to develop the community (Cambridge Station West).

"We further agree that we shall not enter into any contract of sale or otherwise divest ourselves of our ownership interest in the premises during such period without the prior written consent of the City of Romulus.

"We further agree that it shall be reasonable for the city to rezone the premises to single family residential zoning (R-1A) if we should fail to develop the land as undertaken."

Other terms of the agreement included provisions for security measures, the maintenance of a clean, attractive and sanitary development in accordance with state, county and city building, health and safety codes, and street repair and maintenance in the proposed development.

Washington beat

He's looking for support of busing measure

By TOM OCHILTREE, Daily Eagle Washington Bureau chief

MIAMI BEACH — Sen. Robert P. Griffin already is looking beyond the Republican National Convention to the available options open to him when he tries to get Senate approval of the strong busing limitation legislation already adopted by the House.

As the Senate's GOP whip, Griffin said he realized he would have to play his cards very carefully to get a straight up or down vote on this bill before the current session of Congress finally adjourns sine die.

The Michigan senator has one new card in his hand — the strong GOP platform declaration against court-ordered busing to achieve school integration.

Griffin had a major role in the drafting of this plank and its wording pleased him. He said:

"The plank is just what I asked for. It is crisp and unequivocal in its opposition to forced busing and sharply contrasts with the pro-busing plank in the Democratic platform.

Translating the positions defined in that plank onto the books is going to be a difficult task, however, Griffin conceded. While the strict busing limitation bill won approval by the House 282 to 102, the prospects for its adoption by the Senate are far from bright.

Griffin pointed out that every representative was up for re-election this November, while only one-third of the Senate's membership has to face the electorate. Griffin is among that third.

"Members of the House felt the full force of public opinion which has welled up against forced busing," Griffin said. "That public pressure is not felt to the same extent in the Senate."

The House-approved bill would prohibit the busing of all public school pupils, grade school and high school alike, to any schools beyond the nearest or next nearest to their homes. Old federal court desegregation orders stricter than the terms of the bill could be reopened. This provision would apply particularly to the south. And finally, $500 million would be earmarked to pay for compensatory education in schools with a high enrollment of economically disadvantaged and minority students.

By means of a parliamentary maneuver engineered by southern supporters of the bill, the measure, when it reached the Senate from the House, was not referred to a committee where it could be buried.

As it stands now, it can come to the Senate floor any time a place is found for it on the calendar. In the last analysis, majority leader Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) says in what order bills will reach the floor. He has cast some cold water on the prospects for the busing limitation bill, pointing out the Senate, when it returns from its Labor Day recess, faces a heavy workload, including passage of necessary appropriations bills and consideration of federal revenue sharing, a particularly complex subject.

The Senate also is aiming for final adjournment of this congress in the first half of October, which leaves little time to consider busing.

"If Mansfield keeps the busing bill off the schedule, his leadership can be challenged," Griffin said. "It is better not to go to this extreme unless you have to, however. A challenge like that will always draw some Democrats to Mansfield's side, regardless of the issue involved."

A second route to get the measure out would be to attach it as a rider on another piece of legislation passing through the Senate.

"This also has its disadvantages," Griffin explained. "It's not a clean-cut way to handle legislation and when it is tried, you can expect to lose a handful of votes you might otherwise expect to have from people who resent the tactic itself."

Griffin made it plain he was going to do his best to move the bill to the Senate floor. Once there, though, he is not sure the anti-busing forces have enough strength to get the legislation passed.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and other civil rights groups are placing their hopes on the Senate killing the bill one way or another.

In our opinion

Gas increase: must to save area bus lines

SEMTA is fighting a battle against time, "uniformed" citizenry and a State Senate committee chairman.

The Southeast Michigan Transportation Authority wants to save the troubled Metropolitan Detroit area bus lines, consolidate them into one system, thus providing more and better mass transportation.

To do this, the State Senate must, by the first part of October, approve the House-passed two-cent gasoline tax hike, bringing the levy up to nine cents per gallon of gasoline. None of the funds would be used for rapid transit.

But, according to SEMTA General Manager Thomas Lipscomb, there's one big stumbling block — Sen. James G. Fleming (R-Jackson). It seems that Fleming, who heads the five-man Senate Highway Commission, is diametrically opposed to the proposal made in April of 1971 by Gov. William G. Milliken. Two other committee members — Alvin J. DeGrow (R-Pigeon) and Michael J. O'Brien (D-Detroit) — are also in opposition to the proposal.

Lipscomb believes that O'Brien holds the deciding vote to get the bill out of committee and onto the floor of the Senate. SEMTA officials are certain the bill would be approved if it were put to a vote in the 38-member Senate. And, since it's Milliken's baby, would most assuredly be signed into law.

Sen. David A. Plawecki (D-Dearborn Heights), whose 12th District includes Inkster, and Sen. Harry A. DeMaso (R-Battle Creek) are the highway committeemen trying to convince O'Brien to change his mind.

The two-cent increase would bring into state coffers an estimated $80 million per year. One-quarter, or $20 million, would go toward public transportation projects, about $8.5 million to SEMTA to subsidize its bus line consolidation project. The authority then would attempt to get federal matching funds for one-fifth the operating cost.

About $30 million of the $80 million realized by the tax hike would be used for at least 11 outstate and four Detroit Metropolitan area road building projects. The other $30 million would be earmarked for county and municipal road maintenance projects.

What does this mean to Western Wayne County residents? It means, according to Lipscomb, that if the proposal doesn't become law, we'd stand a good chance of losing bus service altogether. The bus lines are in bad financial straights — they're duplicating services in some areas, they're transporting passengers in dilapidated vehicles and they're charging passengers whole fees when transferring from one bus line to another.

The four bus lines — Metro, Lake Shore, Great Lakes and DSR — would be purchased by SEMTA. Metro is the line which services residents in this area.

We don't view the Senate fight, as some opponents do: the classic urban verses rural. It's clear to us that the transportation bill provides for improvements throughout the state which will directly (as in the case of the bus service) or indirectly (improved streets and roads) affect all of the people of the state of Michigan.

Funds must be provided to help improve mass transit, which in the future must become a friend of the automobile and not its enemy.

None of the revenue realized in the tax hike would be funneled into a Detroit area rapid transit system. It would only be used in preserving and improving the present bus service.

In the past we have spoken out against tax increases, such as the income tax hike, but we feel this one, which taxes those who use the facilities, is worth every cent.

Voters, listen!

Republicans might not like hearing it, but we realize that Western Wayne County is a strongly Democratic area.

While we realize the fact, we think it is unjust for the voters to ignore Republican candidates.

During the August primary campaigns, we found that many Republicans, despite the unpopular label in this area, have reasonable programs to offer the voters of this area.

For this reason, we want the Republicans to know that their campaigns are of importance to the Daily Eagle.

We intend to get the ideas of the candidates, despite their political tags, to the people of this area.

And, for the same reason, we hope that the voters will follow by "voting for the man and not the party" this November.

Candidates should stick to the issues

The dust has settled following the early August cat-fight for political office nominations, and with that settling, we're eagerly awaiting the November campaign.

Although the voters have made their decisions on who they want to choose between for offices, we think some candidates have done an injustice to their offices, particularly on the state and county level, by playing to the emotions of the people.

While busing is of chief concern to most area residents at this time, we believe that many of the candidates failed to inform the voters on the matters which their offices control.

Unfortunately, we believe that many of the candidates made it through their primaries by shouting the loudest and longest about the busing issues.

We are firmly convinced that no state or county candidate will have any affect on whether busing is implemented in Southeastern Michigan.

The matter is in the federal courts today, and only federal laws can regulate the federal courts.

This leaves out any of the county and state legislators.

We would hope that the November election campaign is fought on issues relating to the level of government in which the office is being filled.

State candidates should be prepared to discuss tax reform, the state lottery, school financing, abortion, gun controls and pollution, among other issues.

County candidates should have opinions concerning county financing, the downtown Detroit stadium and county pollution matters.

Of special importance will be the county jail, the sheriff's department and Wayne County General Hospital's problems.

Hopefully, the voters will have the benefit of a candidate's reasoning concerning issues, rather than a candidate's emotions concerning matters over which he has little control this November.

Edible containers are in the future

By THEODORE F. KUCKELMAN Executive Secretary
Belleville Chamber of Commerce

Soon consumers will also be able to eat food containers. In a recent Detroit talk, Manfred Kroger, associate professor of food sciences at Pennsylvania State University, said the time is soon coming when food containers could be eaten also. also.

The edible beer can can be the ultimate in the subject of edible containers. "The day when we enjoy a beer can as an hors d' oeuvre may not be far off," he said. Airlines have expressed an interest in edible cups and glasses, and, some large bakeries are trying out pre-packaged portions of ingredients like yeast and bread enrichers in soluble wrappers.

Question: I thought the new law on transporting oversize mobile and modular homes restricted their movement to daylight hours. We saw one on the highway long after dark last week. P. C., Grand Rapids

Answer: True. But emergencies bring exceptions. So in an effort to provide essential replacement housing for people inundated by Storm Agnes damage, the State Highway Commission has temporarily relaxed their regulations to permit transporting these units 24 hours a day. Nighttime movement requires that escort vehicles precede and follow these housing units.

Movement is still prohibited on weekends because of heavy traffic.

Question: Did the state legislature pass that law that would require a person to pay for the identification cards issued by the Department of State Police? R.T.L., Niles

Answer: Act 222 of the Public Acts of 1972, effective August 1 of this year, added a couple new wrinkles to the requirements for obtaining an identification card from that department. A fee of $3 is now charged (and the department turns this money over to the state general fund); and the applicant must be 18 or more years of age and be a registered voter. Applications for the cards may be made at any of the state police posts or at department headquarters in East Lansing. Check with them on additional documentation required as well as restrictions governing their issuance.

REA rep strikes out against board inaction

To the editor:

To initiate a discussion on the philosophies behind negotiating proves to be a very difficult ordeal.

In reality, management teams use "the power of management" to inflict stringent rules and restraints on employes. And the labor team cites proposals that will give them more money, better working conditions and as complete a package of fringe benefits as they believe the "power of labor" can achieve.

The process becomes complex when issues of work stoppages, working without a contract, or sundry other devices which might prompt settlement by the other side come into play. As to philosophy... What does a child think as he pulls the wings off a fly?

Each negotiating situation varies only in content, timing and strategies, with the power to back them up reflected in the above.

Teachers this year have little power because the occupation is overcrowded. Thus the responsibility for a workable contract rests with management in current negotiations between the Romulus Board of Education and the Romulus Education Association (REA).

However, the board is being represented by a lawyer who chose to take a vacation during the last two weeks in August rather than try to reach a settlement with teachers.

Following the initial breakdown in negotiations and just prior to the vacation, the REA submitted what may be considered as its last financial proposal. This was adamantly turned down by the board's negotiating representative.

When compared to surrounding systems that have already settled contracts, the proposed salary figures are very nearly the same as pay scales in Westwood, Dearborn and Ann Arbor.

The figures are slightly higher than those of Cherry Hill and Wyandotte. The financial package is lower than that of contracts settled in the districts of Grosse Ile and River Rouge.

When coupled with the fringe benefit package, it represents an approximate 5.75 per cent increase in costs to the board of education.

The Romulus Board of Education has offered teachers the opportunity to return to work without a contract. Modern teaching becomes difficult enough without working in a limbo having no contractural protection. Romulus teachers sincerely want a viable contract.

Teachers met the night of Aug. 17 to confer on the choices available to them following the breakdown in negotiations. The meeting, initially for ratification, had been planned by the REA since mid-July, when it appeared some settlement could be reached by that date.

However, the board's negotiating representative has not moved on any of the REA proposals other than those that save the board money or clarify language.

Apparently the board will not move to settle the contract until the last possible minute, anticipating the end of the world will perhaps save them from having to make another decision.

Romulus Jaycees are champs

Amidst shouts, moans, clapping and stamping feet, the Romulus Jaycees emerged softball champions of their district last Sunday.

By virtue of their win over Wyandotte on the previous Sunday, Romulus advanced to the finals against Southgate this last weekend.

With the first three innings showing a 0-0 score, Romulus managed a 5-4 lead after five innings and in the seventh and final inning exploded for nine runs for Romulus against six for Southgate, ending in a 14-10 win.

The win was even more satisfying to the Romulus players as Southgate had beaten them twice before.

Salary committee delayed

The Romulus City Council has delayed formal action on a proposed ordinance to establish salaries of elected officials.

Action on the new ordinance, which would create a seven-member electors compensation commission to determine the salaries of all elected officials, was expected at last week's city council meeting.

Adoption of the proposed salary law was delayed when no member of the council made a motion for its passage.

The proposed ordinance was introduced some time ago by Council President Jimmie Raspberry.

Gambles store sold to Tecumseh couple

Gambles of Belleville, one of the leading stores in the Central Business District of Belleville, has been sold.

Robert T. Drysdale, 61, who owned and operated the popular store for the last 19 years, announced Monday that he has sold the business to Mr. and Mrs. James Springer of Tecumseh.

Drysdale, who will spend his last day at Gambles on Aug. 31, plans to "loaf for a month" and then think about future plans.

Gambles was operated under a franchise from the nationwide Gambles chain store headquartered in Minneapolis.

Drysdale was born in Wyandotte and came to Belleville 19 years ago to open up the Gambles store.

ROBERT T. DRYSDALE

He and his wife, Mary Anne, reside at 40700 Alden Dr., Belleville. They are the parents of two grown children: a son at Sault Ste, Marie, and a daughter at Portsmouth.

Mrs. Drysdale retired this year from her teaching position at Van Buren Public School District.

"The City of Belleville has been very good to me and my family. I intend to stay and maintain our residence in Belleville. Our business relationships with residents of the community has been a tremendously enjoyable experience and in many ways unforgettable," Drysdale said.

The new owners of the store, which carries a complete line of home household goods and automobile items as well as electrical and garden appliances, are well qualified to take over the store operations, Drysdale said.

Springer's father-in-law operates one of the largest Gambles store in the country at Tecumseh.

Republican bankruptcy worries Carlton Rush

By DON HOENSHELL
Lansing Bureau

Michigan Republicans are marching into the 1972 campaign almost $500,000 in debt still dragging from near disaster two years ago.

And the man most worried about the bankrupt state of the party is a quiet and methodical professional engineer from Romulus.

He is Carlton K. Rush, 47, treasurer of the Huron Board of Education, president of B. and E. Manufacturing Co., Inc., and chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of the Republican Party in Michigan.

Rush said the party debt has been whittled down from almost $1 million six months ago, that Governor William G. Milliken's 1970 red ink is almost washed away and the future is brighter than it was.

Rush took over the Ways and Means Committee after the 1970 elections and has escalated his political activities in pursuit of a theory he has about the free enterprise system.

"As a businessman, you have a civic responsibility and a duty to take part in politics," he said.

"I got into it in 1964 when I found our party had nominated a man who did not represent the majority."

"And when I found that a minority could nominate a president (Sen. Barry G. Goldwater), I was afraid of what some other minority might do to our lives."

"I have no personal ambitions to run for office. I would rather stay in the political organization side of it. There's a lot to do."

"One of Russia's problems is growing toward personalized politics. Each rising meteor has his own charm and the money now comes in to individual candidates."

Sen. Robert P. Griffin is running for re-election again. The Democratic challenge of Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley is doing nicely in the money department but the party is broke. Lansing staffers are still making monthly payments on telephone bills dating back to pre-1970.

Rush had a hand in changing the state party bylaws to control the size of the debt that a candidate can pass onto the party. The heaviest blow was the more than $300,000 that Mrs. Lenore Romney left for the party to pay off following her unsuccessful try for the U.S. Senate in 1970.

"Politicians are a strange breed," Rush said.

"They say if they had just a little more money they could pull it off. In some cases, that's nonsense."

In another policy matter, Rush was caught in the crunch when Milliken ordained Creighton Holden of St. Clair as his personal choice for national committeeman.

Rush and a handful of others supported attorney Dwight Vincent of Dearborn whose candidacy challenged Milliken's power to run his own party. Vincent withdrew when the vote was 25-3 for Holden.

But Rush, who insists he wasn't threatened and that his arm wasn't twisted, said he sees nothing improper about Milliken's power play.

"I was in the 15th District and a friend of Vincent," he said. "He (Milliken) felt it was important to have a good working relationship with the national committeeman."

"The governor has been a leader of his party. That's part of politics. If you're going to have a choice, you've got to be active."

Rush and others saw the Holden election as a clear sign that Milliken was moving out of the battle of his predecessor, former Gov. George Romney, and is exerting leadership in his own right.

The sweetness and light honeymoon is over. Milliken is in command. When asked if Milliken dictated the choice of Holden, Rush, the gold soldier, said, "No, I wouldn't say it that way..."

Perry-Barton vows exchanged at Ypsilanti Methodist Church

The First United Methodist Church of Ypsilanti was served July 22 for the afternoon wedding of Deborah Anne Barton and Robert F. Perry, II. The four o'clock nuptials were read by the Rev. Joseph Bistayi before some 200 assembled friends and relatives.

The double ring vows united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil A. Barton of 45348 Harmony Lane, Belleville, and the son of former Bellevillites, Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Perry of 11880 Macon Road, Saline.

Floral arrangements of white chrysanthemums and blue daisies adorned the altar as the bride approached on the arm of her father. Dr. Quillian White Ditto, soloist for the occasion, sang "Intrigue Me Not To Leave Thee, My Love" and "The Lord's Prayer".

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT F. PERRY, II

FOR HER WEDDING day, Debbie selected a toe-touching gown of white organza with a scalloped overlay of pale blue organza. Styled with a natural waistline, the little fitted bodice featured a square neckline and short puffed sleeves cuffed with white cotton lace appliques. The same lace motif was used in narrow bands on the skirt, neckline and waist and again on the narrow band which secured her chapel-length illusion veil.

Completing her bridal finery was a round cluster of purple cornflowers and baby's breath. In keeping with bridal tradition, Debbie's 'something old and borrowed' was the wedding band which her bridegroom's father had slipped on his wife's finger 27 years earlier, on July 19, 1945. 'Something new' and 'something blue' were the lingerie and garter she'd received from two of her bridesmaids, Jill Bennett and Patti Perry.

Sandra Leigh Riney of Belleville was asked to be maid of honor. Others in the bridal coterie were Teresa Louise Moore of Riverview and Linda Suzan Stille of Whitmore Lake, sisters of the bride; Jill Ellen Bennett of Livonia, a college friend; Patti Jane Perry of Saline, sister of the bridegroom; and Mary Ellen Sanko of Mt. Pleasant, the bride's college roommate.

IDENTICALLY GOWNED, they appeared in blue cotton viole dresses fashioned with ruffled sweetheart necklines and puffed sleeves, white lace being used for detail. They wore white lace-braid picture hats, short white gloves and held little hand clusters of assorted summer flowers — daisies, bachelor buttons, roses, baby's breath, and ivy.

Five-year old Kathleen Marie Barton was her sister's flowergirl in a blue and white frock similar to the bridal gown. She wore a little white hat and carried a basket filled with assorted summer blooms.

Joseph Moon, six-year old son of the Joseph Moons of Belleville, performed as ringbearer.

Gene Turney of Belleville served as best man. Others on the esquire side were John Wojtys of Detroit; Paul Franz of Grosse Pointe, the bridegroom's college roommate; Eric Rasmuson of Saline; John Barton of Belleville, brother of the bride; and Dean and Don Turney of Belleville.

MRS. BARTON chose for her daughter's wedding a fitted sleeveless formal of pink silk worsted with a necklace of opals, long white gloves and matching shoes and handbag. Her wrist corsage was comprised of pink and white orchids and stephanotis.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Perry, donned a pale blue silk worsted gown with jewels and beading accenting the A-line design. Her shoes and evening bag were in matching blue silk and she added white camelias to her purse.

Following the ceremony, guests traveled to Dearborn to the Knights of Columbus Hall where a champagne dinner-dance reception took place. Among the 300 attending were the bridegroom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A.D. Melton of Olton, Texas and Harold H. Perry from Bradenton, Florida. Others from out-of-state included the bridegroom's uncles and aunts, Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Perry and daughter, Cille, and Mrs. and Mrs. William F. York and daughter, Beth.

Taking charge of the guest book at the reception was Marianne Greenamyre of Valhalla, New York.

ON LEAVING for the three-day honeymoon at Weber's Inn, Ann Arbor, the new Mrs. Perry changed to a wine-colored, floor-length cotton knit dress. The newlyweds are now living at Westview Apartments in Ypsilanti.

Debbie and Bob are both Belleville High School graduates. She attended Central Michigan University last year and is now majoring in speech and dramatic arts at Eastern Michigan University.

A senior in the College of Engineering at the University of Michigan, Bob is affiliated with Alpha Chi Sigma Fraternity. He is employed part-time as a security guard for Burns Security of Ann Arbor.

The senior Perrys played host at the rehearsal dinner Friday, July 21, at the Ann Arbor Town Club with 35 attending.

Roulos feted on golden year

On Sunday, August 6, the children of James and Kathryn J. Roulo of Wayne honored them with a dinner in celebration of their golden wedding anniversary. Because of Mrs. Roulo's health the dinner was held at their home in Wayne.

Kathryn J. Riggs and James Roulo were married August 3, 1922, at Holy Redeemer Church in Detroit. They are the parents of three sons, Ralph of Manchester, Anthony of Wayne, and Martin, who is deceased. WOMEN of The MOOSE

By SHIRLEY GARRY

Belleville Chapter 1135: "Special Day" in honor of our Deputy Grand Regent, Lynn Bradford, (she's from Detroit) was a success. Our other guests were members of the Grand Council: Dorothy DeVenney from Marshall; Betty Van Heck, Past Member of the Grand Council, from Grand Rapids; and Alice Voycheck, Past Deputy Grand Regent, from Dearborn. The honored guests were presented with corsages and dolls dressed with a "smile". We also had other guests who took part in the Ritual: collegians and co-workers from Ann Arbor, Dearborn, Detroit, Windsor Canada, Wyandotte, and Ypsilanti. Chapter 1135 wants to thank everyone for coming out to honor Lynn.

We also enrolled two new co-workers in our Defending Circle, Dolores Rivenbergh, whose brother is Doyle Mead of Chapter 934. She was sponsored by Jerry Mead. Mildred Coffey, whose husband is Arvel Coffey of Chapter 934, was sponsored by Elizabeth Willis.

We send co-workers Isabell Richards, Loretta Kings and Ann Wenderski, best wishes for a speedy recovery. Get well soon, ladies.

Don't forget that our meetings are every second and fourth Monday

Members later worked at their garden project on the library grounds and then moved to Mrs. Leona Baker's home for lunch. The program for the 1972-73 club year was planned.

Serve 'Peachy' Ice Cream Pie

Sometimes the simplest foods are best. Take ice cream, raspberry sauce, and peaches; this simple, yet masterful combination of flavors and textures makes Peach Melba, a classic dessert. The original Peach Melba was created by the celebrated chef Escoffier in honor of opera star Nellie Melba, before the turn of the century. But the same flavors still harmonize beautifully today, in a modern Peach Melba Pie.

When preparing ice cream pie, remember to remove the ice cream from freezer to refrigerator to soften. Allow about 20 minutes for a half-gallon, 10 minutes for a pint, for scooping; half that time for slicing. You'll have to work quickly, and if the ice cream gets too soft, return it to the freezer for a moment to harden.

Make a quickie crust by tossing together flaked coconut, chopped nuts and melted butter, pressing this mixture into a pie pan and baking just long enough to turn it golden-brown, 10 to 15 minutes. The sauce is simplicity itself; just frozen raspberries with their juice, plus a little cornstarch to thicken. Be careful not to overcook any sauce in which you use cornstarch, as it thins out after a certain point.

Peach Melba Pie is an excellent choice for warm-weather entertaining, because it can be made quickly, well in advance, and stored in the freezer.

Peach Melba Ice Cream Pie

1 can (3½ oz.) flaked coconut
¼ cup finely chopped nuts
2 tablespoons butter, melted
1 quart peach ice cream, slightly softened
1 pint vanilla ice cream, slightly softened

Raspberry Sauce

1 package (10 ox.) frozen red raspberries, thawed, drained
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 cups sliced fresh peaches, sweetened OR 2 (10-oz. each) packages frozen sliced peaches, thawed and drained.

To prepare Coconut Crust: In a small bowl toss together coconut, nuts and butter. Press firmly and evenly against bottom and sides of a 9-inch pie plate. Bake in a preheated 325 degree oven, 10-15 minutes or until golden brown. Chill crust in freezer. To assemble pie: Spoon peach ice cream into crust, spreading to edge of pie shell. Freeze. Spoon vanilla ice cream over peach. Freeze. To prepare Raspberry Sauce: Drain raspberries, reserving syrup. In a 1-quart saucepan combine sugar, cornstarch and syrup. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened; boil 2 additional minutes. Stir in raspberries. Cool. Just before serving arrange peaches on pie; cut into wedges and serve with Raspberry Sauce.

SUMMER SPECIAL — Ice cream goes to a party or family dinner in Peach Melba Pie. Like the famous peach dessert, it uses fresh peaches and raspberry sauce, but this one features two kinds of ice cream, vanilla and peach, and a crunchy coconut crust.

At Church of Christ

Romulus man married to Garden City resident

In a candlelight setting at the Church of Christ in Garden City, Linda Diane Crane became the bride of Jim Thomas Landrem. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Crane of Ralph Street, Garden City, and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Landrem of Smith Road, Romulus, are parents of the young couple who are now making their home on Belle Villa Boulevard, Belleville.

The double ring nuptials were read by Brother Hobart Ashby with music provided by the church choir.

The bride wore for her wedding day an Alencon lace and chiffon gown styled in the empire mode with a satin bow and streamers tracing the lifted bodice and accenting the gown's tiered skirt. She wore a lace-trimmed mantilla and carried cascading carnations and sweetheart roses in rainbow shades with tendrils of green ivy.

THE SIX ATTENDANTS wearing rainbow shades were Pat Steiger of Garden City, the maid of honor, in aqua; Jerilyn Sheets of Lincoln Park in apricot; Claudia Sheets in lilac; Donna Tracy of Toledo, Ohio, in mint green; and the junior bridesmaid, Lori Belenchia of Garden City in yellow.

Identically fashioned, the dresses were in chiffon with embroidery frosting the necklines, waistlines and sleeves. Veiled headpieces matched their frocks as did the long-stemmed roses each carried.

Susan Belenchia of Garden City was in lilac for her role as flowergirl. The little basket she held was filled with carnations and roses. Mike Hobbs of Jackson performed as ringbearer.

Attending the bridegroom were Kenneth West of Wyandotte as best man, and Dennis and Steve Crane, brothers of the bride, and Joel Smith of Garden City as ushers.

FOR HER DAUGHTER'S wedding, Mrs. Crane chose an empire gown in pink chiffon trimmed with Venise lace and accessories in pink. The bridegroom's mother donned an aqua satin and chiffon empire gown accented in gold with accessories in the same colors.

Some 200 guests attended the wedding reception which followed at the American Legion Hall in Garden City.

The new Mrs. Landrem, a 1972 graduate of Garden City West High School, and her husband, a 1968 alumnus of Romulus High, spent their honeymoon at Niagara Falls, Canada and New York.

State police prepare for worst holiday period

Preparing for an expected upsurge in traffic during the Labor Day period — the last of three long holiday weekends of the summer season — the Michigan State Police and local law enforcement units are placing special emphasis on patrol coverage during hours of congested travel, Col. John R. Plants, director, reported.

The patrols will begin at noon Friday, Sept. 1, and end at midnight Monday, Sept. 4.

Maximum coverage will be assigned during those periods when traffic may be expected to be heaviest — from 3 p.m. to at least 9 p.m. each day. Special attention will be given road sections having bad accident history.

The director said Labor Day in recent years has been the worst of the five major holiday periods for traffic deaths. The average was 35 for that holiday weekend in the years 1967-71. High for the five years was 51 in 1968, low was 24 last year.

To augment the patrols, pass days have been cancelled for post troopers, post sergeants, court officers, school liaison officers and recruiters.

District commanders may use district and post detectives as needed as well as district safety and traffic officers. Check lanes will be suspended and their personnel will also be used on patrols.

Department aircraft, weather permitting, will supplement the car patrol activities in daylight hours.

Stressing that increased holiday traffic increases the potential for accidents, the State Police director urges motorists to exercise utmost care in their Labor Day driving.

Downriver counseling office moves to Detroit

Family counseling in the Downriver and out-county areas will become the responsibility of Family Service of Metropolitan Detroit on Sept. 1.

Rudolph Tucker, president of Family and Neighborhood Services with offices at 3042 First St., Wyandotte, made the announcement as his agency planned to transfer this service to the Detroit based agency.

Tucker said the service transfer was a progressive step since it will give to Family Service of Metropolitan Detroit responsibility for family counseling throughout Wayne County.

Family Service of Metropolitan Detroit currently has district offices in Dearborn and Livonia as well as Detroit. Family counseling includes help with parent-child problems, marriage counseling and individual group treatment.

Howard Hush, executive director of the Detroit based agency, said that service to the Downriver and out-county communities would continue at the current level of Torch Fund support.

Family and Neighborhood Services, an old Wyandotte agency, will continue its current programs in out-county Wayne. The programs, are aimed at reaching people who are unable to take advantage of available programs and services with the staff exhibiting particular concern for low motivated, alienated and so-called "hard to reach" families and youths.

It also offers help to neighborhood groups who are interested in trying to improve the quality of life in their communities.

Family and Neighborhood Services will continue to operate its other three offices which are located in River Rouge, Romulus and Inkster.

Both agencies receive most of their financial support from the United Foundation.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S horoscope

Tomorrow's forecast from the Carroll Righter Institute

General tendencies: This is a day to think about your overall and biggest ambitions, and then consider just what you need to do to make such a plan workable and to have success. You find you instinctively know the right answers, methods if you listen to hunches.

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Talk over with experts in the monetary world what it is you have in mind of a practical nature and make arrangements for a more prosperous future. Get bills paid so you build up credit. Have fun socially in p.m.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get busy and improve your appearance and then gad about socially and make right contacts, business or personal. Group affairs are particularly fine. Stop letting that individual curb your style.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) You are inquisitive by nature and can now ferret out the information you want and need. Take more interest in whatever is of a romantic nature. Remember that all work and little play can lead to frustrations.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) Put aside dull routines and get out and see good pals you have been neglecting for a long time. Enjoy personal fun that relieves tensions. Show others you have a fine sense of humor.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you express your views too strongly with one in high position you may find it reverberates where it really hurts. Get into that civic work that is just your cup of tea. Make a good showing and advance.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get busy and plan that little trip that will bring you the results you want, either of a personal or business nature. Secure the facts you need just at this time. Use diplomacy in doing so, though.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Forget that annoying situation that takes too much of your time and get busy doing whatever will help you advance more quickly. Iron out conditions with your associate. Make everything around you more charming.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) See how business and personal matters can be improved. Talk over with associates later how to improve arrangements between you. Give as much attention as you can to any minor children you may have. Know what they are doing.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can handle all those tasks ahead of you with the aid of fellow workers very well today. Take the treatments you need that will make you more dynamic. Avoid one who likes to down grade you.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Think out how to have freedom from worry today and forget all those problems you have and enjoy fun with congenials. Take mate along with you and be happy. Handle only whatever is important in a.m.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) See what you can do to make those who live with you much happier and stop being so concerned with own affairs. Do whatever will make everything at home run more efficiently. Avoid one who bickers too much.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) The one who means the most to you can be very helpful in making your daily existence happier and more pleasurable now. You have wise ways for putting across your ideas now. Keep active and all is fine.

If your child is born today...he or she will be one of those clever young people who will realize early that a safe investment that draws a fair interest is good for a long period of time, so slant the education along lines of banking, finances, business and the like for excellent results throughout the lifetime. Early training in ethics and morality is fine so your youngster will not be tempted to go the wrong way. A very affectionate mate in this chart, and one who loves children.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Joining painting, poetry

Artist seeks fame with new art form

By JIM CARRAVALLAH

When art is a way of life, one locks himself away from all people. Five dollars doesn't mean an opportunity for a good time — it means two tubes of oil paints.

Divorcing himself from life, and its pleasures, the artist gains fulfillment through recognition. Recognition, according to Ron Warunek, a 21-year-old Dearborn Heights painter, comes from being unique.

Ron, of 26032 McDonald, believes that his work is unique, because he has attempted to join two of the seven art forms into one work.

He explains, "One can lift more things with two hands, and, I believe one can express more meaning with two arts."

His art consists of joining painting and poetry into one work.

"Since the beginning of time," he says in a written presentation, "the arts have remained separate, until now—a movement in art, to join all arts."

One might consider Warunek a bit presumptuous to call his concept a movement. But, for four years, since he'd dropped out of the 10th grade to take up art–painting and poetry have been his life. For the past six months, he's refined his concept, and has sent its description to more than 250 art patrons throughout the world.

At times, the answers have been critical, but at other times, they've been encouraging.

Robert C. Kelsey, director of the Kelsey Gallery in Lahaina, Maui, Hawaii, said, "For hundreds of years, poets have been inspired by artists and artists have been inspired by poets. It wasn't until a young artist named Ronald Warunek came along that the two found each other.

"Mr. Warunek's paintings are a blend of art and poetry. But are not the two the same? Truly, art is poetry, and poetry is art.

"Mr. Warunek has not created just another art gimmick. He has found what all artists look for, but rarely find: originality."

"By one lucky thought, I have created a new concept," explains Warunek. "I'm interested in joining painting and poetry, but I need others interested in joining the other arts into one form."

Warunek admits that his concept isn't new. After all, even greeting cards use a picture and a short verse to express the same ideas. But he believes he's the first to name the concept, and to attempt to work it into an art.

"This is part of the reason I've written to art galleries throughout the world," explained Warunek. "I want to find whether the concept is, indeed, unique. After more than 250 letters, and many responses, I haven't been told that my concept is not unique.

"I have received criticism, though."

One of the directors of the Detroit Institute of Art didn't dispute Warunek's claim that his style is unique, but disputed his claim that it adds to art.

If the single work of art is strong enough, then it should be able to stand alone, according to the director.

Warunek calls the criticism illogical.

He remains convinced that his art form is workable, and valuable.

"I maintain that two arts joined into one form can express more than one art standing alone," he said.

"In my works, the painting is a separate art, and the poem is a separate art, but together, they form a new unique form, which is stronger than any of the two standing alone."

"The criticism, when illogical, makes me think of art history. Many of the great artists were called names in their own time, only to find recognition later in history. It doesn't bother me."

Wrote Kelsey, "New ideas in art are often rejected by the public. Wasn't Picasso called a madman early in this century? And hasn't he become the living legend and inspiration for millions of artists around the world?"

"I have an obsession to create," said Warunek. "It took me four years to become a dedicated artist, and now, I have a concept.

"My art will grow. It may be that a year from now I'll have a new concept, growing from this one, but now, I'm convinced that this idea will make me famous."

Fame is what Warunek seeks. Today, he has more than 185 paintings sitting around his home--the work of four years of creativity.

It may be, like Picasso, his paintings will bring him fortune.

Today, though, he continues his work, and continues his correspondence--seeking advice, and allies so he can further his cause.

HIS NEW ART — Ronald Warunek, 26032 McDonald, Dearborn Heights, holds one of his works, which combines a poem with a painting to express ideas in a form which he considers unique in art. The poem reads, "Lose your anger upon this wall of all your hatred your selfish ways."— Daily Eagle photo by Dean Lyons.

Big festival in Detroit this weekend

"The best of all the festivals this summer" is what the organizers of the International Ethnic Festival promise for this weekend on the downtown Detroit riverfront behind Cobo Hall.

There will be a variety of continuous entertainment, all free, on two stages along the river. Friday evening at 7, immediately after the welcome by Mayor Roman S. Gribbs, there will be a Slovak dance group and the Red Garter Band.

On Saturday, from noon to closing at 11 p.m., there will be more dancing and singing — including a Polish children's dance group, rock and jazz band, guitar folk music, Mexican Mariachi band and polka dancing.

Sunday's visitors will be entertained by Ukrainian folk dancers, Ziggy Bela's gypsy violin group and Israeli folk dances. The Detroit Symphony Orchestra will perform a two-hour concert, beginning at 6 p.m. at the Civic Center Plaza, Woodward at Jefferson.

There will be over 30 food booths selling things like baklava, steak sandwiches, garlic bread sticks, shish kebab, pierogi, pizza, egg rolls, Belgian waffles, ribs and bagles.

The Sunday Woodward Avenue flea market is going international too. For all four days of the festival, vendors in costumes will be selling their eccentric or antique items at the riverfront site.

Budding artists or just art lovers will want to take advantage of the special section set aside for those who want to sketch.

Friday at 6:15 p.m. is the official opening when 1,000 balloons will be released.

Reducers honored at State Fair

Area residents who are fighting the battle of the bluge may want to set aside Sept. 8 as a special day.

That day has been designated physical fitness and weight watchers day at the 1972 Michigan State Fair.

Any person who shows a Weight Watcher's Membership Book will be given a 50 per cent discount on the admission price if he attends the fair between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Entertainer cuts his first album

Fans of Bill Kahler, main attraction at the Leather Bottle Inn in Garden City, will be happy to know that he has recorded his first album.

The album was recorded a few weeks ago in a live session at the Leather Bottle and will be available in about a month. Featured songs include "Malaguena," "The Wedding Song," "Danny Boy" and Bill's convincing imitation of Elvis.

Bill performs on Wednesday through Sunday nights between 9 p.m. and 2 a.m. During his 14-month engagement at the Leather Bottle he has picked up a sizeable number of regular fans.

Although he labels himself a folk singer, Bill will perform anything from the songs of the 50's to an instrumental Spanish love song.

The Brooklyn born singer has lived in the area for the past eight years, most of it spent in clubhopping.

Judge blasts legal profession for discrimination

Wayne County Circuit Judge Horace W. Gilmore has issued a blistering indictment of "deliberate discrimination against women in the legal profession."

The judge, who has served on the Circuit bench for more than 15 years, charged that the entire legal system — courts, judges, law firms, lawyers and law schools — is involved in a denial of women's rights.

Gilmore said:

"The arithmetic of discrimination against women as judges in the courts of Michigan is appalling. Of the 492 judgeships in our state, there are only 10 women judges."

"This outrageous ratio," he said, "is an 'outward and visible sign' of deliberate discrimination against women in the legal profession — which, of all professions, should be and must be the one most concerned with social, political and economic justice."

Gilmore's statements were in response to questions by the Women's Caucus of the Michigan Democratic Party. The judge is a candidate for the Michigan Supreme Court.

Gilmore's reply to the caucus charged:

—"Discrimination against women, as women, in divorce and custody cases is a continuing problem."

—"It is difficult for women to gain admission to law school. Our law schools deny that there is any 'quota' system limiting the number of women students. That may be. But something is keeping down the enrollment of women.

—"As practicing attorneys ... more women are being admitted into established law firms. But in far too many cases, it is tokenism without any serious consideration of the women's professional capability when it comes to assignments and responsibilities.

—"In some courts, there is discrimination against women as attorneys. It is time to end the Portia Syndrome. It is time that women lawyers have recognition as women and as lawyers, not as Portias — women playing a 'man's role' before the court."

Gilmore said he is "deeply concerned about this iniquitous inequity — as a man, as an attorney and as a judge."

He stated there is a "need to re-examine the written and unwritten policy on qualifications for admission to law school."

"Our colleges and universities," he said, "have eased general admission requirements for minority-group students to meet their special needs. Why not some flexibility for women in gaining admission to the professional schools of our universities?"

Gilmore praised the recent action by the House of Delegates of the American Bar Association, which, in convention in San Francisco, approved a resolution "calling upon law schools to close their placement offices to any law firms that do not consider women lawyers on an equal basis with men in hiring."

Gilmore said that the University of Michigan adopted a similar policy last year.

"Now let's do something about discrimination after the women are hired," Gilmore said.

Gilmore said a minimum program to end discrimination would provide:

—The opportunity for more women to study law. This would include not only a re-examination of admission policies but more scholarships for women; financial assistance, including centers for the children of women law students.

—Equal professional opportunity for women to practice law with equal pay, equal working conditions and equal treatment in the courts and by the courts.

—Full opportunity for women to acquire the professional experience needed to qualify for election and-or appointment to the bench."

The request for Gilmore's statement was sought on behalf of the Women's Caucus by Vivian Shaner of Ann Arbor. Also signing the request were Lillian Buckholts, Jan Klaver, Frances Prevas, and Jeanne Tashien.

Noxious weed job created

The Romulus City Council has unanimously approved the position of noxious weed commissioner and has instructed the city clerk to advertise for qualified applicants.

The job of the city's first noxious weed commissioner will be on a part-time (seasonal) basis.

The city council acted when Councilman Ellis T. Pennington asked that the council create such a position. He was supported by Councilman James C. Stewart.

The council also ordered a communication be sent to the city's Department of Public Works and the Wayne County Road Commission requesting that weeds on all right-of-ways within the city be cut immediately.

Councilman Brooker R. Edwards, who requested that council authorize the communication, reported that in some areas of the city, weeds are so high that they cause a traffic hazard.

Persons who apply for the position of noxious weed commissioner must be residents of the city and submit or mail resumes of their backgrounds to the Personnel Department, Romulus City Hall, 11111 S. Wayne Rd.

WARRANTIES PRESENTATION — Roblee B. Martin, (right), vice president and general manager of Fruehauf Buildings, a division of Fruehauf Corp. presents 10-year warranties to a group of new owners of Fruehauf townhouses at Belle Villa Townhouses, located at 955 Sumpter Rd., Belleville. The presentation was made at a recent pool-side party. The group becomes the first recipients of the Fruehauf 10-year warranty covering each townhouse.

Townhouse warranty party held

Residents at Belle Villa Townhouses, located at 955 Sumpter Rd., Belleville, recently attended a pool-side party at their development where they became the first recipients of the Fruehauf 10-year warranty covering each townhouse.

Roblee B. Martin, vice president and general manager of Fruehauf Buildings, a division of Fruehauf Corp., made the presentation of warranties and hosted the function.

The Fruehauf 10-year warranty, unique in the building industry, guarantees that the home is free of major structural defects for a decade. If repairs are required to correct a major structural defect, Fruehauf Buildings, upon proper written notice, will cover the cost of repairs.

Martin said, "We are pleased to be able to offer this innovative warranty to owners of Fruehauf townhouses. The individual expressions of pride in our units by Belle Villa residents justify the extensive time and effort that we have devoted to quality control.

"Fruehauf Buildings offers the strongest, quality-built townhouse on the market today, and we are proud to stand behind it with a ten year warranty."

Panax names PR director

EAST LANSING — A former vice-president of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce has joined Panax Corp., publisher of The Daily Eagle and Associated Newspapers.

Harry J. Buckel, 28, will become director of public relations and market research, according to Clarence E. (Dusty) Rhodes, Panax vice-president who made the announcement.

Buckel has been with the State Chamber of Commerce since 1970 when he joined it as assistant to the president. In July of 1971 he was promoted to vice-president of finance and development.

"Panax is most fortunate to attract to its ranks a young man with such outstanding credentials," Rhodes said. "During the past two years, members of the Panax staff have had an opportunity to work with him on matters affecting the State of Michigan. His enthusiasm and knowledge of business will be a great asset to Panax."

A native of Indianapolis, Ind., Buckel graduated from Sacred Heart High School in Indianapolis prior to obtaining a degree in finance from Xavier University in Cincinnati.

Before enrolling in graduate school at Michigan State University in 1970, he served for two years as a management intern with the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce and spent three years in the U.S. Army infantry. He gained the rank of lieutenant after enlisting as a private.

IMPROVE YOUR HOME

Home decorating becomes much easier

By VIVIAN BROWN

It is getting easier to be your own decorator as more manufacturers and stores lend a hand with do-it-yourself pamphlets and decorating advice.

Now another assist is available, with a decorating course to be given in the fall at more than 200 Sears stores. Eight lessons and a textbook compiled by top-notch professionals are expected to give a homemaker confidence to try her hand at some home projects, and to equip her with the knowledge to collaborate with a decorator, if that is what she wants. Each store will use decorating experts from its area to teach the home decorating course.

The most puzzling aspects of decorating—color, lighting, accessories, furniture styles and their origins—are explained in a basic way.

One of the best known experts in the field of textiles, Dorothy Liebes, provides the chapter on color. Her course explains that color is a psychological force—for example, sensations in response to color make us happier on a bright, sunny day when light and color vibrations lift our spirits.

In choosing a palette (she prefers to select from light, dark, bright colors) a logical pattern should be followed. The basic color scheme might evolve from existing climatic and regional conditions, and be built around possessions and the family pattern of living. Colors should be suited to the woman of the house and pleasing to her husband in Miss Liebes' opinion.

Good lighting must focus on artificial light, lighting innovator Robert Sonneman emphasizes in his lesson on lighting. Glare must be avoided because "as glare increases, the ability to see decreases."

In addition to pointers on quality, color and intensity of light and color and its reflections, charts illustrate the reflective value of colors. Sonneman also explains:

...Human flesh tones are more flattering in incandescent light, the red end of the spectrum...people often sacrifice lighting function for what they feel is aesthetic appeal. After selecting all the wrong lamps, they keep adding wattage and get more glare...There is a proper way to light each area of the home.

...Colors of walls and ceiling affect the level of illumination in a room—white walls reflect about 75 per cent of available light; dark brown or black might reflect 5 to 15 per cent. Walls serve best when they are in the 35 to 60 per cent range.

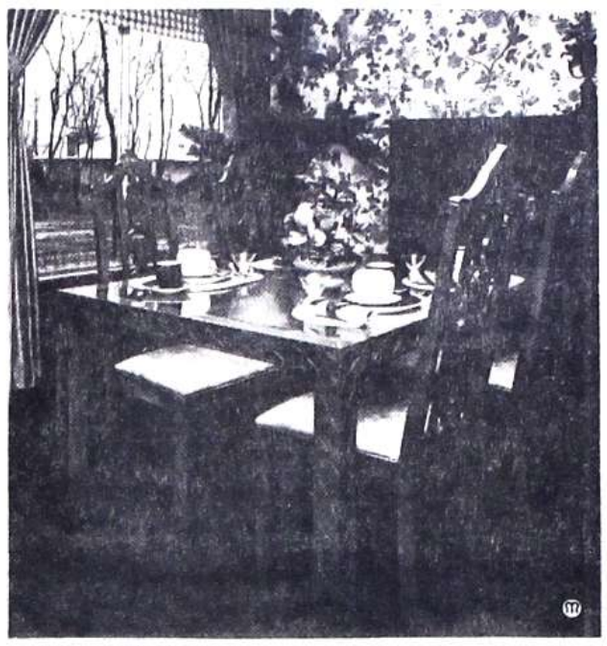
...Lighting used for makeup should be as color true and close to sunlight as possible...in the bedroom it should be soft indirect illumination.

Planning accessories gives one a real chance for personal liberation in home decorating, the textbook points out in a lesson from Lawrence Peabody, well-known designer of furniture and accessories. Accessories can be used to control space in creating a harmonious effect. Unity of color can help to achieve it. In a contemporary home, accessories might be lamps, ashtrays and vases in yellow. In a traditional room they might be blue and white in Delft and a handsome blue and white rug.

Unity of materials is another way to provide a cohesive accessory scheme, Peabody points out. Materials might be natural—wood, stone, brass, glass, chrome—no color. Or they might be brass or milk glass.

Students will learn that small things—boxes, candlesticks, cache-pots, shells, minerals— help make a room personal. Flowers and plants can bring vitality to a room setting. A collection of tablecloths, printed dress materials or upholstered fabrics may provide a great deal of charm with matching napkins in a color from the print.

In addition to one's patterned china, Peabody suggests that one should have a basic set of white dishes (to go with wild fabrics).



BEST ADVANTAGE — A small dining alcove is used to best advantage with this attractive grouping. Lattice-work pattern adds new dimension to the Parsons table, a glass top gives a touch of elegance. The design is repeated on the matching chairs.

Casual solution for space problem

Space has yet to be conquered when it comes to planet earth's modern living quarters.

The space that concerns most earthlings is not a moon trip but the space squeeze in today's smaller-scaled dwellings.

Whether the problem is a no guest-room house or an apartment sans dining room, making every cubic inch of available space work is the homemaker's decorating dilemma.

One old solution to creating several living spaces in one room was to place floor screens, planters or rows of bookcases between the different areas.

In today's smaller rooms, this kind of divider tends to break up space into many cramped cubbyholes.

A more casual, more satisfying solution is to allow furniture groupings to define space, and flow into each other.

A dining island within a living room, for example, can be as private as a separate dining room. Without breaking the already limited flow of space, a table, chairs and china cabinet can be placed in the corner of the room most convenient to the kitchen.

This kind of unself-conscious furniture arrangement works best with small-scaled, sleek-lined furnishings.

Another advantage to eliminating actual dividers in a room is that the separate areas can be blended together when necessary.

In a living-dining room, for example, the table can become a complementary work area to the family quarters of the room. Or the dining chairs can be easily manuevered into the conversation area for extra guest seating.

A casual melding of once rigidly separate living areas can be the earthbound homemaker's solution to her own private space race.

Greatest range

Ponderosa pine has the greatest growth range of any commercially important lumber species in America.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG

The rungs of a chair have an annoying habit of coming loose over a period of years, especially when there is either too much or too little relative humidity in the room where it is used.

If at all possible, the loose rung should be removed, doing this very carefully so as not to cause further damage or mar the finish. All glue should then be scraped from the holes in the legs of the chair as well as the ends of the rung. Do not sand the joint for any reason, since this will enlarge the holes and make the repair more difficult.

Glue is then applied to both the holes and the ends of the rung, but not if it appears that there will not be a tight fit. In that event, it is necessary to take up the slack in some way. This can be done by cutting thin keris in the ends of the rung and inserting tiny wedges in them. Another way is to wind some silk thread around the ends of the rung. Sometimes, winding some strands of fine steel wool around the ends of the rungs will suffice. In any of these three choices, apply a little glue to the holes, before putting the pieces together. If any squeezes out during the reassembling, wipe it off immediately, using a soft cloth and warm water.

The joint must be kept tightly together while the glue hardens, in most cases as much as 24 hours, more if possible. If you have bar clamps, this is simple, but be careful to place small, soft-wood blocks under the jaws of the clamps. Set the clamps to the desired positions before applying the glue. If you do not have clamps, you can make a kind of tourniquet with some rope or heavy cord, winding it around the two legs that hold the rung in place.

Here again use some padding so the rope doesn't damage the legs. Place a stick in the center and turn it and the rope together, an action which will draw the legs together. When sufficient pressure has been applied, rest one end of the stick against the rung so that it doesn't spring loose. If necessary, tie it in place.

When a chair rung will not come out without danger of further damage: After drilling a pilot hole, drive a nail through the end of the run from the inside of the chair leg. Use a finishing nail so that it can be driven slightly below the surface and the hole filled with wood putty or plastic wood. Another solution is to drill a tiny hole through the leg so that it stops just before it reaches the end of the rung. A glue injector is then inserted into the hole, which permits glue to reach the inside of the joint.

(Thirty-five assorted home repair problems are taken up in Andy Lang's helpful handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," which can be obtained by sending $1 to this newspaper in care of Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.)

They're making it better for deer

Daily Eagle Lansing Bureau

LANSING — The Department of Natural Resources is making life a bit more bearable for Michigan's one-half million deer.

For the second year running, the DNR is conducting a program to improve the permanent habitat and emergency feeding of deer.

John Byelich, DNR deer range management specialist, said the $600,000 allotted to the program from hunting fees in 1971-72 will be increased to $900,000 this year.

"Most of the money appropriated last year was used to purchase pickups, chain saws, skidders and snowmobiles for land clearing and thinning," Byelich said.

Some 16,000 acres of land in both the Upper and Lower Peninsulas have been worked on thus far, Byelich said.

The aim of the habitat improvement move is to thin down dense, older forests, creating a bushy undergrowth to improve the grazing of deer herds in areas where starvation has been most acute.

Areas selected for reworking are determined through hunter surveys.

Byelich said the habitat improvement plan does not pretend to wipe out deer starvation, but does hope to reduce the magnitude of the problem in some of the major deer hunting areas.

Looking for a headache? Drive on Labor Day!

Although Labor Day weekend travel should be up five per cent over last year's holiday pace, only homebound traffic on Monday (Sept. 4) is expected to reach serious traffic jam proportions on major roads, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

It is predicted by Auto Club that 3.3 million vehicles will travel 740 million miles during the holiday weekend which begins at 6 p.m. Friday (Sept. 1) and ends at midnight Monday (Sept. 4).

Despite the increased number of vehicle miles being traveled, the tendency of a growing number of motorists to avoid peak travel periods at the start of holiday weekends should result in few traffic tieups Friday.

"We estimate that 15 per cent of the state's vacationers are now beginning trips as much as a day early or a day late to avoid travel delays," states Joseph Ratke, Auto Club touring manager.

Although Auto Club expects heavy traffic on I-75 between Flint and Bay City with only intermittent slow-ups the first day of the weekend, no bumper-to-bumper conditions should develop. What is expected is steady, heavy traffic with no noticeable peak between 7 and 10 p.m. Friday.

"We have been noticing this trickling effect over the past year on the long summer holiday weekends, and feel it is the only explanation for the absence of traffic tieups but state park campgrounds which fill in some areas the night before a holiday weekend begins," states Ratke.

"We also have noticed a lessening of pressure and turnaways at state parks during holiday weekends the past two years although the number of campers each year has grown at a 10 per cent rate," states Ratke.

"The reason for this is that while camping families have grown rapidly, private parks have been increasing at a 20 per cent rate over the past several years," he adds.

Ratke says the Michigan motorist will not be aware of the number of vacationers in resort centers until 2 p.m. Monday when the first waves of heavy southbound traffic start building on I-75 between Bay City and Flint and on US-31 from Traverse City to Muskegon.

If weather is favorable, the heaviest traffic in Michigan all holiday will be along Lake Michigan's Coho Coast, especially between Manistee and Traverse City.

However, heavy salmon runs in Lake Michigan are not expected until mid-September, which means that campgrounds and motels near popular coho fishing areas in West Michigan possibly may not fill to capacity for the first time in several years.

Auto Club advises vacationers not seeking salmon runs to visit the northeast section of the Lower Peninsula, where many campgrounds and motels from Standish north should have vacancies over the holiday.

The heaviest traffic of the year to date in Michigan is expected on Monday between 2 and 10 p.m. when most weekend vacationers, coho fishermen and cottage owners return families home for school.

After 2 p.m., Monday's traffic is expected to move extremely slow on two-lane roads which lead from resort centers to freeways since one in every five vehicles will be a recreational unit — either a motor home or car pulling a boat or camper.

Last Labor Day weekend, there were 24 persons killed on state roads.

To aid the motorists traveling over this holiday and to help reduce the number of traffic accidents, Auto Club will operate its "Bring 'Em Back Alive!" Holiday News Service.

A staff of 25 Auto Club employees will be gathering and disseminating information on traffic and tourism to almost every radio station in Michigan. The News Service is expected to put out 70 bulletins between 4 and 11 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. and 11 p.m. Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Ratke states that one way traffic deaths can be cut dramatically in Michigan this holiday is if motorists avoid alcohol. He points out that more than half of all fatal traffic accidents involve the drinking driver.

Co-chairmen of the show were Frederick W. Hay and Carl W. Morris, both of Romulus. They have headed this "very successful" annual event since it was first held in 1959. It has become an important part of the Annual Wayne County 4-H Fair.

Both men are members of the board of directors of the Wayne County Fair Association.

Tavern owner charged

Wayford L. and Duane R. Butler, operators of a Class C liquor licensed establishment, located at 37054 Huron River Dr., New Boston, have been accused of allegedly violating the Michigan State Liquor Control Laws by "allowing annoying or molesting of patrons on their premises."

The charge against the Butlers was made by the Flat Rock Post of the Michigan State Police.

A hearing on the police complaint is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. Sept. 13, at the Lincoln Park offices of the MLCC.

Sickle cell unit to be at state fair

The Sickle Cell Detection and Information Center, located at Kirwood General Hospital, Detroit, will kick off a new service facility — a Mobile Testing Unit. It will be stationed at the Michigan State Fair. The fair opened on Aug. 25 and runs through Sunday, Sept. 10.

Free testing will be conducted the entire time of the State Fair in the mobile. Following the State Fair, the Sickle Mobile will be stationed throughout the black community on a routine basis.

Sickle cell anemia is a serious blood disorder affecting predominately black people and those of Mediterranean descent. More than 50,000 people in the Detroit area are sickle cell carriers and more than 1,200 have been detected as having the disease.

The entire black community is urged to take advantage of this opportunity to be tested and learn about sickle cell anemia. There is no cost to the public for the test and assorted informational materials.

Curb cut proposal denied by council

A request made by Stewart Distributors, Inc., 24 Columbia Ave., Belleville, for authorization to cut a curb to make way for a new exit going into Wabash Street has been denied by the Belleville City Council.

A group of residents on Wabash Street appeared before the city council last week and argued against a curb being cut on their street. Wabash is an unpaved one-way street.

The residents contended that Wabash was never intended for the traffic the new driveway would bring, and that the change would be hazardous to area children living on the street.

They further contended the present driveway at the firm provides adequate room for turnabouts for semi-trucks doing business at the company.

Officials of the company argued the curb cut was included in the original plot plan for Marathon Oil Co., owners of the property through which the proposed driveway would run.

Action by the city council is required because the ingress and egress traffic involves a city street.

The council also approved the appointment of Mrs. Jean Baumdraher, deputy city clerk, as acting city assessor to replace Irwin W. Stech, who has retired.

In other business, the council denied a request filed by Arthur Monks for the creation of a special assessment district to finance the construction of a sewer connection to his Sumpter Road property.

New regulations face state sportsmen this fall

By JOANNA FIRESTONE
Daily Eagle Lansing Bureau

LANSING — Michigan sportsmen should do some homework on the Department of Natural Resources' (DNR) new game restrictions before taking to the field and stream this fall.

The DNR has juggled the dates of several seasons and cracked down on the limits of scarce species.

In July, the DNR voted to the cut by 90 per cent the number of does bagged in the Upper Peninsula, from over 6,000 in 1971 to 640 during this year's Nov. 15-30 season.

David A. Arnold of the wildlife division said four severe U.P. winters prompted the DNR's action.

"Party permits will replace individual licenses this year as well," Arnold said. "Any group of four hunters is eligible to apply for a party license that will allow one doe and four bucks."

Arnold said 800 party permits will be distributed.

The number of antlerless deer permitted in the lower peninsula will be 9,700, down nearly 50 per cent from the 19,000 allowed in 1971.

"A greater number of acres will be open to hunters in the southern part of the state because we are trying to stabilize the number of car-deer accidents down there," Arnold said.

"The herd in this area is quite strong and healthy, numbering about 100,000."

There are an estimated 200,000 deer in the U.P., with about the same herd size in the northern part of the lower peninsula.

The state's 1972 duck season has been set for Oct. 6 - Nov. 24.

For the second year, duck hunting will operate under the point system, with different species rating different points according to their flock sizes.

Hen mallard, wood duck, black duck and hooded merganser tally 90 points each this season; drake mallard, hen pintail, and ringneck duck 20 points each, and all other ducks, including mergansers, again carry a rating of 10 points apiece.

Each duck hunter is allowed 100 points of game per day.

This year's duck regulations remove canvasbacks and redhead ducks from the shooting list due to their seriously scant populations. Both species are under nationwide protection.

DNR officials say the point system provides a flexible bag limit for those hunters who are able to be selective in their shooting. Experiments in Michigan, Iowa and Illinois show it reduces hunting violations and is favored by many sportsmen over the standard system of bag limits.

As a sporting bonus to this fall's regular duck season Michigan will again have a special 16-day hunt on scaup running from Nov. 25 - Dec. 10. Five scaup per day and 10 in possession will be allowed during the special hunt.

Rounding out the waterfowl season, Michigan geese will be hunted Oct. 1 - Nov. 30 in the U.P. and northern Lower Peninsula and Oct. 6 - Nov. 30 in the southern lower peninsula.

The fall goose season will carry a bag limit of five geese per day and five in possession to follow last year's basic format.

As a part of that quota, however, the daily take on Canada geese has been cut from two to one through the Mississippi flyway which includes Michigan.

Victor Janson, a wildlife specialist with the DNR, said pheasant, rabbit and squirrel populations are good throughout the state, with hunting expected to be somewhat better this season than in 1971.

Small game limits and seasons are as follows;

—Pheasant, Oct. 1-10 in the U.P., one daily and four per season; Oct. 20-Nov. 10 in the lower peninsula, two per day and eight per season.

—Rabbit, Oct. 1- March 31 in the U.P. Oct. 1 - Mar. 1 in the lower peninsula, five daily and 50 per season statewide.

—Squirrel, Sept. 15-Nov. 10 with five daily and 25 per season statewide.

—Beaver and otter populations are reportedly holding their own, with spring seasons to be set by the DNR in October.

—Although moose, lynx and wolf are experiencing somewhat of a comeback, their numbers are still seriously scant, and are under total state protection.

On the streamside of fall gaming, the DNR said salmon snagging will be sharply restricted to a few Great Lakes streams in a move to head off conflicts with steelhead fishing which these hooking activities stirred during recent seasons.

The new regulations will limit snagging to those streams which draw large salmon runs and do not create hazards for other sport fish.

The proven road to sales success!

Fact: over 94% of everybody uses the Yellow Pages. 70% of those make calls to firms while 30% go directly to the advertiser without calling. Smart businessmen know the Yellow Pages reaches customers, produces sales!

That's why they've found it pays to feature addresses and slogans prominently in their ads . . . to use display ads to stress reliability and to let buyers know the range and variety of brand name products sold and serviced. They also include days and hours open, if delivery service is available, what credit cards they'll accept. And they're represented under all headings pertaining to their business.

Now's the time to expand—or begin—advertising in the Yellow Pages. Just contact your representative—in the Yellow Pages under "Advertising—Directory & Guide". Call soon. Beat the deadline. Join the following businessmen who travel the Yellow Pages road to sales success:

LANDSCAPE CONTRACTORS—Stone Age Landscape Supplies, Van Dyke, Utica—Mr. John J. Merle
"It took us only one year to prove the value of the Yellow Pages. Being new in business, and a new advertiser, we kept close check on what the ads were doing for us. Based on our survey, we determined about 50% of our calls came from the Yellow Pages."

MOTORCYCLES—Detroit Honda Stores, Chalmers, Detroit—Mr. Gil Engles
"Yellow Pages advertising motivates a person who is ready to buy to call us, or come in and see us, and buy from us rather than another dealer. Because of our locations on Detroit's east side, and in northwest Detroit, Warren and Romulus, we advertise in the Detroit Yellow Pages, all six of the metropolitan directories and the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti Yellow Pages. Our phones ring constantly and I must credit this primarily to our Yellow Pages program."

CONTRACTORS—GENERAL—Nick Manzella & Daughter Improvement Co., S. Mill, Pontiac—Mr. Nick Manzella
"I've always made a point of finding out where my customers come from and how they found me. Since I changed locations early in 1970, between 70 and 80% of my business has come from the Yellow Pages."

LUMBER—RETAIL—Tela-Warren Hardware & Lumber Co., N. Telegraph Rd., Dearborn—Mr. Leonard Zucker
"Two-thirds of my advertising budget goes into the Yellow Pages. And my business increased 27% during 1971! Most of that increase can be directly attributed to increasing the sizes and placements of ads in the Yellow Pages."

HALLS & AMPHITHEATRES—Camoron Hall, S. Telegraph Rd., Taylor—Mr. William J. Campbell
"I placed an ad in the West and Downriver directories and, within a few months after they were out, my date book was filled for the remainder of the year. Business hasn't let up since. I started asking every customer how he or she happened to find us and knew I had made a wise move when 90% of the people said they found us in the Yellow Pages."

DOORS—Doors Galore Inc., Schoenherr, Warren—Mrs. Bernice Osborne
"Since we've placed display ads in the East Area, North Woodward Area and Detroit Yellow Pages, about one-third of all our new business can be traced directly to the Yellow Pages."

TOWING—AUTOMOTIVE—Shelton Towing Service, Marion, Redford—Mr. J. C. Shelton
"The first year I advertised in the Yellow Pages my business doubled as a result of my ad! No other advertising has ever performed for me like the Yellow Pages."

Chamber says schools don't prepare students

LANSING — Michigan schools are not adequately preparing their students for the world of work, according to a report issued by the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce.

With a little reorganization in personnel and curriculum, schools could cut the number of drop-outs and increase the number of jobs their graduates find right out of high school, the report says.

Today's schools are not making adequate provisions for the 60 to 70 per cent of their graduates who do not go on to college or the 28 per cent that eventually drop out.

"For the past decade, the state chamber has been urging that vocational - technical education in Michigan be restructured, reappraised and redefined to meet the educational needs of 70 per cent of the pupils in primary-secondary schools who do not enter institutions of higher learning," says Harry R. Hall, president of the state chamber.

"It is nothing short of economic cannibalism to have a large percentage of the school product cast on the labor market with no marketable skill," he continues.

"Occupational education has been shunted to the slag heap, the educational hierarchy, for much too long. We feel the intellectual and economic climate is not favorable to greater emphasis on education geared to a productive and satisfying career, The program can be financed with savings in other areas of education."

The proposal recommends school counselors be trained as liaison officers between the high school graduate and a job instead of remaining guidance officers.

In Michigan, present educational requirements for a counselor include 18 semester hours of counseling, teaching experience and either a master's degree or 12 hours of graduate study in the field.

But in these requirements, no one has made a provision for counselors to have actual work experience in fields outside education.

"Counselors should be in a position to give proper guidance to the 70 per cent of students who will not continue formal institutional education after high school," the report states. "This requires a thorough knowledge of the job market, of various job classifications and specific skills required, alternatives, opportunities and limits of advancement on jobs, local and regional job demands and thorough knowledge of conditions of work in the respective careers."

Most counselors don't have this experience, the chamber notes.

Therefore, the report recommends a placement service be set up in the schools to help the vocational and academically trained student find a job after high school.

Although the service would require an increase in the number of guidance counselors, the monies needed could come from savings to school districts suggested in nine other chamber-sponsored money-making proposals.

Hand-in-hand with the proposal to increase the relevancy of counselors should go a plan for career education that gives the student a practical look at the world of work, the chamber suggests in another report on education.

That means shifting the emphasis in curriculum of career-oriented courses to stress successful working careers.

The proposed career education program will provide for on-the-job experience allowing the student to work awhile and return to school for additional classroom experience; widen learning to the home, community and employing establishments; and emphasize that career education does not interfere with other education, but complements it.

The cost of implementing such a program would actually be an investment with top returns on each dollar. The report notes that every potential worker educated in such a program will pay back his initial investment within 60 days after beginning work.

And, the chamber-sponsored report points out, by organizing the program so each student is able to slip easily back and forth from working to further education, the social benefits of career education would be limitless.

To implement the preceding two proposals, the chamber suggests encouraging businessmen in each school district to work closely with their school counselors and give students a realistic look at the job market and guide them toward the proper career.

Establishing a Business-Education Council in each school district seems to be the best answer, the chamber notes, and it should comprise high-level representatives of business and education.

Basically these experts would provide advice and practical assistance in determining vocational needs in the community, exploring just what the school has to offer in the way of vocational education, and counseling employers and schools about just what careers are available and how students can best get into them.

Local businessmen are perfect helpmates in this program, the report says, since who better knows about the world of work than those who participat in it each day.

Their part in the program would consist of providing speakers for business symposiums, helping with job counseling and placement, and providing tools and other implements for vocational education programs.

The preceding proposals have been researched by the state chamber's education specialists and a volunteer task force of businessmen and approved by its board of directors.

KEITH EMERSON 'We'll be better'

11 veterans bolster Belleville hopes

Tigers don football armor

Enterprise-Roman
Sports
Wednesday, August 30, 1972 Page B-1

High School gridders donned their armor Monday and began their masochistic drills that will prepare them for the 1972 football season.

Most area schools are expected to launch the season on Sept. 15.

"We're looking for a better year," admits Keith Emerson, who is in his third year of a rebuilding program at Belleville High. "And if everything falls into place and the attitude and consistency are there, we will do better."

That "better" means improving upon a 5-4 won-lost record which was the best posted by any Belleville grid squad in the last decade. And to assure themselves of a winning season, the Tigers could make 1972 a memorable one.

Leading the returnees is All-Area, All-Suburban 8 Conference back Mike Dansard who generated most of the yardage and touchdowns for the Tigers last year. Completing three years of varsity competition, Dansard could become one of the most explosive runners in the area if he can shy away from injuries.

Injuries have been a "plague on the Tigers" in previous seasons. Coach Emerson lost Tony Ogletree the first game last year and that versatile player was slated to become one of the best fullbacks in the state.

Belleville also has a "blue chip" end back in the lineup in senior Terry Pate who snared 25 passes last year. A three-year-letterman, Pate will be utilized as a linebacker when he's not busy catching aerials. Tim Wellday and Mike Beck also look like outstanding prospects at end. Wellday devoted all of his time to the defense last year, but the Tiger coach said Tim would be used on offense.

When Ogletree got injured, Bruce Ford, then a soph, stepped in and did a respectable job as a safety-fullback. He'll be working both spots again this year.

Two regular linemen, John Alford (6-0, 205) and Alan Eockter (6-1, 200), are outstanding tackle prospects who have plenty of experience to back them up while Ron Bluhn, a 5 foot, 11 inch, 180-pound senior is also rated as a top-notch prospect at tackle.

Watch for Stan Mars, 5-9, 150 at halfback, and Ralph Cohen, a 5-11, 210-pound fullback to combine with Dansard and provide the Tigers with one of the best looking backfields they have had in many a season.

If there is no mention about a quarterback, there is good reason. That's "where the team hurts the most".

"It's a question mark spot," said Emerson. "We are really hurting in the position."

Lee Stiltner is one of the QB candidates who played as a sophomore but didn't letter at the post. He has a lot of work ahead of him, according to the Tiger mentor.

And the road ahead will be tough.

Allen Park, which has won successive league championships, will again be "the team to beat." But also in the thick of the race will be perennial title contenders Trenton and Redford Union. The two "newcomers", Dearborn and Edsel Ford, proved in their inaugural Conference year they're no pushovers when it comes to gridiron warfare.

"Everyone's tough in this league and each week we will have to be ready or suffer the consequences," noted Emerson.

Where have ex-gridders gone?

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Hey there, football fan, we need your help.

We're tooling up for our "Football Special" and would like to hear from anyone out there who knows of any ex-prep grid star that will be donning a collegiate football uniform this season.

Last year, in our inaugural special we had a feature that was devoted to former high school stars, but many were unaccounted for and after we went to press some of the fans offered names.

If you know of any area star, please drop us a line or call direct.

The University of Michigan had one of the best high school hurdlers in the state in its clutches and let him slip out.

In fact, the Wolverines employed Lorenzo Reid in their Information Bureau during the summer months and the recent Inkster High graduate chose to attend arch-rival Michigan State University.

"I just liked MSU's track program better," said the 18-year-old Reid who captured All-Area berths this year in the high and low hurdles. Reid's 14.2 for the 120-yard high hurdles was the best performance by a Michigan high-schooler this past season.

"I have been working in the U-M Information Bureau but, really, I feel the track atmosphere at MSU is much better and there's where I want to go to school," confessed the slim 5-foot-10 athlete.

LORENZO REID

Reid also revealed that his prime goal is, "making the 1976 U.S. Olympics track team."

"It's a dream and the only way I'm going to realize it is to work hard with the best coaches. And I think I have it in me to get where I want to go."

Reid has competed on the varsity level for four years under the tutorship of former Inkster High track coach Kam White. As a senior Reid was coached by Richard Walker. White, the high school's athletic director, bowed out of coaching two years ago after coaching for more than 20 years.

Walker stepped in last year to replace White as track coach. Reid credits Walker for giving him "a new winning attitude."

"Mr. White got me started and taught me the importance of discipline, however Coach Walker made me realize that to reach any goal one has to keep on working and working.

"And I would like to thank both coaches for my high school success," Reid added.

The youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Kendrick Reid, of 3320 Isabelle, Inkster, Lorenzo followed in his "big brother's" footsteps. His brother, Kendrick, now a captain in the Air Force, also starred in track while prepping at Inkster High.

Lorenzo is also a scholar. He devotes as much time to his books as he does to track. He graduated fifth in a class of 189 and is a member of the National Honor Society.

"I don't want anyone to misunderstand," said Reid, "the University of Michigan is a very nice place. I just think MSU is better."

The Sports Information Director at Michigan State University is Fred Stabley, East Lansing, Spartan Sports Service: (517) 355-2272.

That's for Lorenzo's information. He may be needing a job when U-M learns he's going to MSU.

Huron has new grid coach

Jim Rossow, who served as assistant football coach to Lee Smeltzer for three years, has stepped up into the head coaching position at New Boston Huron High School.

The 24-year-old Rossow, who has also been coaching the Chiefs' wrestling squad, inherited 11 lettermen but was left with a thin rank, numbering 22 players.

"Our numbers are small and the younger members of this squad don't have any experience, so if we are hit with a rash of injuries, we'll be in serious trouble."

Smeltzer, who left a respectable 6-3 won-lost record behind last year, also left one of the better quarterbacks in the area in co-captain Mario Gracjo whose pinpoint passing and hustle in the backfield made the Chiefs a contender in the league that carries the high school's name.

Sharing the captaining duty will be Jamie Hinojosa, a sturdy linebacker who is a versatile athlete, having lettered in basketball and baseball as well as football.

Forming the hard core of returnees are Keith Thompson, a stellar center and guard who is 5-10, 160-pounds; Dana Kemp, an end-defensive halfback (5-10, 160); Malloy Connley, offensive-defensive halfback; Dan Berry, senior tackle, (5-10, 175), Bill Grove, sophomore tackle (5-11, 230) who lettered in his freshman year; Jim Sitz, defensive tackle 5-10, 180-pound senior; Jeff Hessler, end (5-10, 150-pound junior); Dan Durham, 5-11, 175-pound offensive halfback, and Tim Hinojosa, a 5-10, 170-pound junior who will be serving as a backup QB and halfback.

One notable name missing from the 1972 roster is that of Ron Suemnick, who earned a letter as a sophomore. Ron's prep football career came to an abrupt end this summer as he suffered a mishap at his place of employment, causing the amputation of his foot.

Ron lettered last year as an offensive end and defensive halfback.

Huron will open the 1972 campaign on Sept. 15 at home (7:30 p.m.) to Grosse Ile. The game will also launch the league season.

"We're looking for Monroe Catholic Central to be tough again this year," said Coach Rossow, "but the defending champ, Tecumseh, also should be right up there again."

Could Huron repeat or better last year's 6-3 record?

"It all depends on our injuries," said Rossow, "if we can stay away from a lot of serious injuries, we'll be alright. However, if we can't, we're in trouble."

Schoolcraft dates set

Schoolcraft College will host many special events for high school and college athletes during the coming academic year, including the national junior college swimming and diving championships next February.

The schedule, just released by Dr. Marvin Gans, Schoolcraft's director of health, physical education and athletics, gets started on September 16 when the college hosts its seventh cross country invitational. Gans said 26 high schools have entered varsity and reserve teams which will race over the Cass Benton Park course starting at 10:30 a.m.

On November 4, the College will host its second swimming and diving clinic for high school swimmers. Dr. James Counsilman, coach of powerhouse Indiana University teams, will be the guest speaker. On December 16, Schoolcraft will hold its second invitational meet for high school swimmers and divers.

The holiday basketball tournament this year will be held on December 27 and 28. The four-team field includes Schoolcraft, Kalamazoo Valley Community College, Lansing Community College and Washtenaw Community College.

After the new year, high school wrestlers will compete in Schoolcraft's third invitational meet. The dates are January 12 and 13.

Collegiate swimming and diving will be in the spotlight in the Schoolcraft pool in February. The state community college championships will be held on February 9-10, and the nationals on February 23-24. Gans said that schools from across the nation are expected to send their best swimmers and divers, and that upwards of 350 athletes will compete in the national championships.

Briggs captures '8' title

FLAT ROCK — Chuck Briggs of Belleville won the Figure 8 Stock Car Race at Flat Rock Speedway Saturday night.

The feature event of the evening, the Royal Triton 100, was won by Ron Hutcherson of Keokuk, Iowa in a 1971 Ford.

The triumph gave the 29-year old Hutcherson the 1972 Automobile Racing Club of America's National Championship.

Bobby Watson of Prestonburg, Kentucky finished second, followed by Dave Dayton of Indianapolis.

Bill Jackson of Romulus finished fourth.

Flat Rock will stage two racing programs over the upcoming Labor Day weekend.

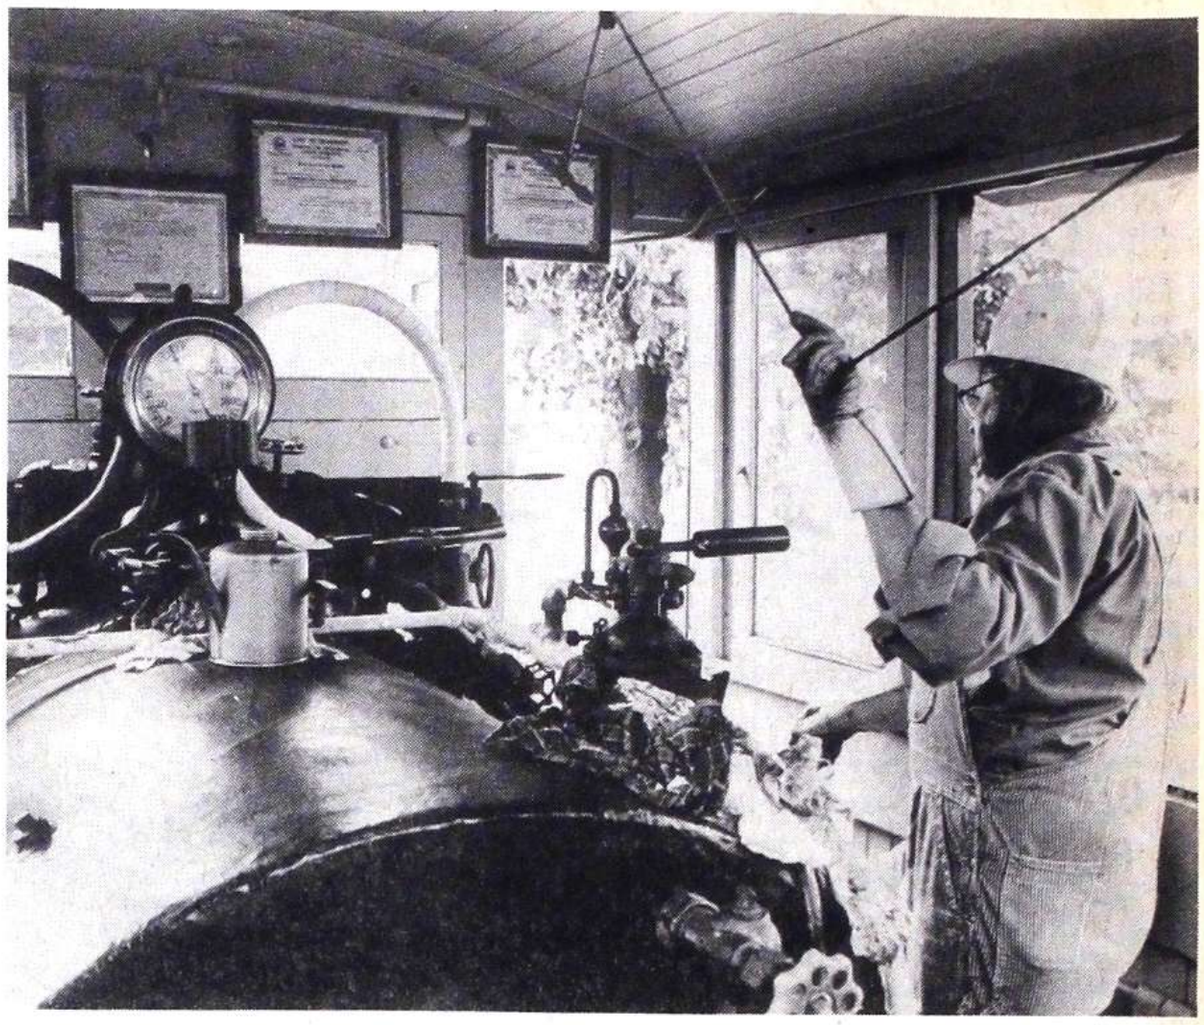
SMITH CREEK STATION — Viewed across the wood bin of the Torch Lake, Smith Creek Station looks much the same as it did when Greenfield Village was opened in 1929. At that time Henry Ford Sr. escorted Thomas Alva Edison and President Herbert Hoover from a train at the same platform. The new perimeter railroad is part of a multi-million dollar development program under way at Greenfield Village and the Henry Ford Museum.



INSIDE THE IRON HORSE — Engineer Carl Brown runs the Torch Lake around the newly constructed track at Greenfield Village. The locomotive is almost the same as when built in 1873. It now runs on oil instead of wood and coal and runs on a larger rail. Carl punctuates the two miles with many whistle blasts and speed changes to insure an exciting ride.

'Torch Lake' now able to chug all way 'round

America's oldest operating steam locomotive, the 1873 Torch Lake of Greenfield Village, now circles this world-famous 260-acre outdoor museum of American history 18 times daily.

The new Greenfield Village perimeter railroad was officially inaugurated last week with William Clay Ford, grandson of the founder, at the throttle of the Torch Lake.

Ford, chairman of the Edison Institute which directs the operation of the Village and Henry Ford Museum, stopped the train at the Main Street crossing adjacent to the Henry Ford Homestead, to drive in a ceremonial golden spike signifying the completion of the new two-mile scenic route.

Boarding the cab at the Village's Smith Creek Depot, Ford recalled that his grandfather had escorted President Hoover and Thomas Alva Edison from a train at the same platform on Oct. 21, 1929, the day that Greenfield Village and the Henry Ford Museum were dedicated.

Dr. Donald A. Shelley, president of the Edison Institute, pointed out that installation of the perimeter track for the Torch Lake was one of the initial goals in the multi-million dollar development program currently under way at Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum.

"We feel that our railroad operation provides not only an enjoyable experience for our thousands of visitors," he said, "but it also puts them back a century in time to the days when the 'Iron Horse' made possible America's westward expansion. Now they can personally experience history coming to life."

The Torch Lake was a gift to the Edison Institute from the Universal Oil Products Corp. For more than a half century, it proved its mettle hauling cooper ore at the Calumet and Hecla mines in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, and retired from company service for preservation in 1932.

99 YEAR OLD TRAIN — The Torch Lake was built in 1873 by Mason Machine Co. of Massachusetts. It was used to haul copper ore in Michigan's Upper Peninsula until 1932 when it was retired. It now circles Greenfield Village 18 times daily on a two-mile, 20-minute trip. The locomotive is the only survivor of more than 700 of its kind built between 1853 and 1890. The Torch Lake weighs 36 tons and stands 11 feet 7 inches high.

Federal programs can aid youngsters

According to Mrs. Lorena Burton, program coordinator, Section 3 of Public Act 312, provides funds for educational services for all low-achieving, elementary-aged children without restrictions based on family income or other factors.

Federal Title I funds provide money for improving achievement levels of educationally deprived youngsters.

A Head Start program through HEW provides preschool experiences for certain children who will enter kindergarten in September of 1973. Eligibility is based on family situation and income.

For more information about these and other state and federal programs, contact the office of Federal Programs at the board of education offices, 36540 Grant Rd. or call 941-1600.

In finding jobs

Unemployed seniors helped

Unemployed older workers can get help in finding new jobs through job placement assistance provided by a state agency located in Inkster, according to Senator William Faust (D-Westland).

Senator Faust said that a job placement interviewer from the Michigan Employment Security Commission will be stationed at the Inkster Employment Exchange to provide help in finding jobs for older persons.

"The agency's prime function," said Faust, "is to assist persons 45-and-over in locating both part time and full time employment."

The mini-placement center is located in the Twin Towers Building, a senior citizens complex, located at 2000 Inkster Rd., Inkster.

Faust said that a similar placement center on Detroit's east side found jobs for over 400 persons since last August.

The telephone number for the Inkster office is 274-9015. The office hours are from 8:15 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Haunted house sought by club

Does anyone know where a haunted house can be found in the City of Romulus?

The Romulus Jaycees have begun an extensive search to locate a building which can be used to provide fun and entertainment during the Halloween season.

In describing the project, Jaycee Vice-President Mike Pawelak indicated the Jaycees will use the building, after minor alterations, to develope a "Scare House" such as those at amusement parks.

The objective is to provide an alternative to having the trick-or-treaters roaming the streets in the dark or playing pranks. The project has proved to be one of overwhelming success in localities surrounding Romulus, and the Jaycees wish to provide that enjoyment for local persons.

If any residents have suggestions as to the availability of such houses, they are asked to contact Mike Pawelak at 941-0049. Such locations, of necessity, require some "scare" equipment to be installed and later removed by the Jaycees.

He said the foundation has a state permit and asked for local approval of the Torch Drive campaign.

Both units unanimously granted approval for a no-fee solicitation permit for the foundation's solicitation campaign.

No agreement yet for township teachers

An all-day negotiating session held Monday between representatives of the Romulus Board of Education and the Romulus Education Association (REA) failed to bring an agreement on a proposed 1972-73 teacher employment contract.

Although final settlement has not been agreed upon, a spokesman for the board of education reported a lot of progress on the proposed contract terms has been made.

The spokesman added, "It appears the major unresolved issue is salary schedules."

The current teacher employment contract between the REA and the board of education was terminated by the board on Wednesday, Aug. 14.

It was also reported the REA plans to call a meeting of the school district's teachers this week to discuss the board's contract proposals.

Contract terms now under consideration were not disclosed pending final action by the teachers on the proposed employment contract.

Officials are hoping an agreement will be reached by Sept. 6, when Romulus Public Schools open for the new school year.

Loyd to head winter recreation

William Loyd, 28, a member of the Van Buren Public School District teaching staff who directed the township's 1972 summer recreation program, has been reappointed director of the township's winter recreation program by the township board.

The township board also approved an appropriation of $6,000 to finance winter recreational activities soon to be announced. This is about $1,000 less than the summer appropriation of $7,000 approved by the board.

The summer programs required more personnel hence the higher amount appropriated.

8. Motion by Bizek, supported by Pennington, that the request of Bert L. Smokler and Company for tentative preliminary plat approval for the Smokler-Bower Subdivision, Section 9, City of Romulus, be approved subject to said company incorporating the following recommendations into referenced preliminary plat:

1. Developer must provide City with assurance that they will maintain the several temporary hard-surface streets indicated to be installed east of Lots 13 and 14 between Ecorse and Sellwood Drive adjacent to lots 115 and 148 between Charing Cross Drive and Longspur Circle and north of Lots 234, 235 between Charing Cross Drive and Touraine Drive, in that preliminary plat indicates that the several streets will be on future lot sites and outside the limits of the first subdivision.

2. The Design Engineer when submitting final plans should indicate the existing valves on the 20-inch watermains. It may be necessary to cut in an additional valve on the 20-inch main to provide proper control of the water system. The two proposed connections on Charing Cross Drive and on Creemore Drive be installed with the first phase of development. A water extension terminating in a hydrant properly valved should be installed on each of these eyebrows. In addition, water mains should be added adjacent to Lot 31 on Morriston Drive terminating at the easterly subdivision line. Water mains should be installed on Triverton Lane adjacent to Lot 202 and on Tyndale Drive adjacent to Lot 211. These mains should be extended from Touraine Drive west to the West subdivision line. The size of the water main on Touraine Drive, Sellwood (Between Creemore and Charing Cross) Longspur Circle, Amberley Drive and Nieghwood Drive should be changed from 6-inch to 8-inch diameter. The plan should include a 12-inch main on Henry Ruff from the east to west subdivision line.

3. Sanitary should be added for Lots 97 through 103 and Lots 177 through 183 on Sellwood Drive east of Creemore, and on Charing Cross Drive between Longspur Circle and Sellwood Drive, and on Morriston Drive from Longspur Circle to the east subdivision line an on Tiverton Lane and Tyndale Drive from Tyndale Drive from Touraine west to the west subdivision line.

4. The internal enclosed storm system be rerouted from the intersection of Sellwood Drive and Charing Cross north in the Charing Cross right-of-way to the service drive on the south side of Ecorse Road, then easterly within the service drive, terminating with a connection into the Trouton Drain. The rear yard catch basin proposed at the southeast corner of Lot 10 and the service drive catch basins north of Lot 10 should be diverted east into the trunk system rather than discharging directly into the Trouton Drain as indicated. The rerouting of the 60-inch storm line will also permit a connection into the 60-inch along the service drive in lieu of the direct connection into the Trouton Drain in the vicinity of Lots 3 and 4.

The developer should enclose that portion of the Trouton Drain, approximately 700 feet indicated in the preliminary plan to remain as an open ditch at the easterly end of the proposed subdivision.

The final plans shall provide capacity and outlets for the surface water from the area west of proposed subdivision flowing into several natural water courses through this property.

5. A hard surface road should be considered for Henry Ruff Road, preferably a 24 foot wide concrete pavement.

Roll call vote showing: Ayes- Bizek, Block, Oakley, Pennington, Raspberry. Nays - Edwards, Stewart. Motion carried.
